Strike Goes Into Effect This Morn But Telephone Walkout Delayed

BULLETIN
NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of 31,000 operators hit the Western Union Telegraph Co. today, but the company announced it had been able to resume partial service by afternoon.

BULLETIN
DETROIT (AP)—The CIO Telephone Workers Union today summoned its top national leadership to an "emergency meeting" in Detroit. Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America, said the meeting was called to "review our present bargaining situation." Beirne also said the meeting would "perfect plans" for the scheduled 6 a. m. strike next Monday. The strike originally was scheduled for today but was postponed.

NEW YORK (AP)—Western Union Telegraph Co. operators walked off their jobs today and slowed the nation's telephone business to a trickle.

The company placed an embargo on new business in most of the nation's large centers, except for messages to foreign countries. At a number of offices kept open by supervisory personnel, the company expected to restore limited service later in the day.

Federal mediators managed to arrange a delay until Monday of a scheduled strike of telephone workers in three states. Both sides involved union demands for higher pay and new contracts but there is no connection between them.

Few Stay on Jobs
Workers were reported remaining on their jobs in only two of Western Union's large centers. The AFL Commercial Telegraphers' Union postponed its strike at San Antonio, Tex., for 24 hours. No reason was announced, but observers believe the delay was due to large Army and Air Force installations there.

In the other center, New York, the operating force is represented by another union—the American Communications Association. The CIO set up picket lines at the company's main office in New York in the hope of discouraging employees from reporting to work.

Accept Some Messages
Western Union accepted domestic messages for delivery in all of Long Island, the five counties of New York City, and some points in northern New Jersey. Messages to foreign countries also were being moved and telegrams destined to Alaska were accepted subject to delay.

Domestic messages destined to other than New York metropolitan area points were declined with the explanation that "because of a strike we are temporarily unable to accept your telegram; we expect to restore limited service shortly."

News Service Operates
News Service communication set-ups were not affected by the strike. In Washington, Adolph Brungs, CIO president, said there was no report that any of Western Union's 3,000 larger offices failed to heed the strike call.

The telephone situation eased early this morning with a postponement until Monday of walkouts by 40,000 CIO communications workers in Michigan, Ohio and Northern California.

Union officials said they postponed the strike to give federal mediators more time to work out settlement terms between the union and three Bell Telephone companies.

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the CIO Communications Workers of America, flew to Detroit early today to take charge of the negotiations. Michigan is considered the pattern-setting in the dispute. Another 16,000 telephone work employees of Western Electric, part of the Bell system—have also scheduled a Monday walkout which would have nationwide repercussions.

An estimated 300,000 CWA phone workers are in the middle of new contract talks. Contracts are expiring for all these workers between now and August.

Striking Western Union employees have no strike fund, Brungs said, but have been "preparing" for the walkout for weeks. Brungs would not guess how long the strike might last. He said it was the first full-scale telegraph strike since 1919.

Ask Bishop Holt Be Reassigned To St. Louis Area

JEFFERSON CITY, April 3 (AP)—Reassignment of Bishop Ivan Lee Holt to the St. Louis area of the Methodist Church for another four years was urged in a resolution adopted unanimously at a state-wide meeting of Methodist leaders here today.

Bishop Holt, who has headed Missouri Methodism for eight years, was praised for his outstanding work. The resolution will be sent to the south central Methodist jurisdictional conference in Wichita, Kan., June 27. At that time all six bishops in the jurisdiction will be assigned for the 1952-56 period.

Bolich Refuses to Testify On Spending While In IR

Former Top Official With Internal Revenue Bureau Gives Only His Address To House Ways and Means Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Daniel A. Bolich, pleading that answers might "tend to incriminate me," refused today to testify on his big spending and other activities as a former top official of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Bolich would tell the House Ways and Means Committee investigating tax scandals one thing only: his address.

The committee had wanted to pursue sworn testimony it got yesterday that in five years as chief of the bureau's New York intelligence office and later as assistant internal revenue commissioner, Bolich was paid $53,000 by the government but spent at least $115,217.

That testimony came from two special intelligence agents of the bureau who swore also Bolich admitted to them he spent $32,000 in the five years, 1946-50.

Witness Over Protest
Bolich, a heavily built man whose personal finances have come under scrutiny in connection with his former official duties, took the witness chair over the vigorous protest of his attorney, Robert L. Callahan of Brooklyn.

Callahan told Chairman King (D-Calif.) of a House Ways and Means subcommittee Bolich's health made it "dangerous and unsafe for him to be here to testify."

King ordered Bolich to answer questions after noting that the committee had received independent medical advice that the former assistant commissioner was well enough to be subjected to limited questioning.

Just Gives Address
Bolich answered just one question—he said his address was 617 Second St., Brooklyn.

Asked if he had any other residence, Bolich claimed his constitutional privileges against testifying against himself.

"I refuse to answer any further questions on grounds that any answer I might give may tend to incriminate me," he declared.

Prior to this, Callahan told the committee Bolich was present under compulsion of a subpoena and "contrary to the advice of his personal physician."

Bolich has been under investigation by agents of the Internal Revenue Bureau. Their inquiry covered his work both as chief of the bureau's New York intelligence office and as assistant commissioner.

Lived On Lavish Scale
The subcommittee heard testimony yesterday indicating that from 1946 through 1950 Bolich lived on a $115,217 scale while his earnings totaled $33,000.

The testimony was spiced by references to an as yet unidentified "Mr. X" who contributed generously to Bolich's style of living. Donald Schapiro, assistant committee counsel, said "Mr. X" might be named today.

Bolich became chief of the New York intelligence unit in 1946. He was promoted to assistant commissioner Sept. 1, 1948, and resigned last November while under investigation by the House committee and the revenue bureau.

Friend of Dutchman
He has been identified as a close personal friend of Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunwald. Washington mystery man whose lawyer says he is too ill to be questioned.

Bolich was disclosed to have halted two tax investigations started against Grunwald, whose tax accountant testified that Grunwald's 1949 and 1950 income included $233,000 from unexplained sources—attributed variously to "cash" and gambling winnings.

In $20-a-Day Suite
After becoming assistant revenue commissioner in 1948, Bolich lived a year and a half in a $20-a-day Washington hotel suite for which Grunwald footed the bill.

Special agent George H. Lemay told the committee yesterday that "Mr. X" furnished Bolich with Chrysler automobile and in 1949 bought $3,504 of carpeting for Bolich's seashore house in Spring Lake, N. J.

The same donor, the committee disclosed, paid for $150-a-month quarters set up by Bolich in the Hotel Borsari in Brooklyn, although his home was nearby.

Special agents testified a painstaking check of smart New York shops showed purchases by Bolich of half a dozen shirts at $31.50 each, and again nine shirts at $30 each.

Rumor Break In POW Talk May Be Near

Top Allied Brass Arrives In Munsan Amid Secret Talks

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Rumors of a possible break in the prisoner exchange deadlock cropped up today when top Allied brass arrived shortly after U.N. truce negotiators postponed secret prisoner parleys.

An Allied spokesman said the prisoner talks were postponed 24 hours for "constructive purposes."

There was no announcement as to why Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, top Allied commander; Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, and other generals flew here for conferences with the U.N. armistice delegation.

An official spokesman said it was not "a foregone conclusion" that an important development was imminent.

Possibly Something Big Brewing
He did not deny, however, that there was such a possibility.

Observers said it might be significant that the list of top-level officers included Van Fleet and Brig. Gen. Francis Dodd, commander of the Koje Island prison camp, scene of two bloody riots in the past two months.

The eighth Army would handle the actual exchange of prisoners. The joint subcommittee of top-level negotiators met for the first time in two months Thursday for its first attempt to break the deadlock over whether Russia qualifies as a neutral nation to help inspect a Korean truce.

Nothing new happened in which nothing new happened," said Man. Gen. William K. Harrison.

Postponement of the secret prisoner exchange talks stirred immediate speculation that a new move to end the deadlock may be in the offing. Similar recesses in the past have preceded important developments.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, U.N. spokesman, said the postponement "was made for constructive purposes."

"But I am not giving any hint at all as to any progress or lack of progress in the prisoner of war talks. On the other hand, it would be completely incorrect to say it was caused by friction between the two sides."

No Recent Announcement
Since daily briefings on the prisoner talks were eliminated March 25, U.N. spokesmen have announced only that the staff of officers were exploring a Communist proposal.

The Reds suggested the prisoner exchange problem be worked out on the basis of prisoner rosters traded last Dec. 18. These rosters listed 11,559 Allied prisoners and approximately 132,000 Communist prisoners.

There has been neither secrecy nor progress over the Russian question since the Reds first injected the issue into staff officer talks Feb. 16. The Communists nominated the Soviet Union as a "neutral nation" to help inspect a truce.

Local Western Union Office Closed Today By Nationwide Strike

The Western Union office in Sedalia, 119 East Second, is closed due to the nationwide strike. Leo Lemartz, manager, said today all district offices like Sedalia, outside of the larger cities, have been closed by the company.

No traffic whatsoever is being handled by the smaller offices. The strike affects two women operators, two messenger boys and manager Lemartz at the local office.

Threaten Steel Seizure

Government Holds That Over Heads Of Industry: Hope To Forestall Strike

BULLETIN
NEW YORK (AP)—The Steel industry today offered the CIO United Steelworkers of America a 16-cent-an-hour wage increase and the union rejected it.

BULLETIN
NEW YORK (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray entered negotiations with the steel industry today still demanding that the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board be granted in full.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall and Benjamin Fairless, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., today broke off their talks about a price increase for steel.

Chances of averting a strike next Tuesday midnight looked poor to Fairless.

"I am very pessimistic," he told reporters.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Truman administration held over the steel industry today a threat of government seizure unless a strike due next Tuesday is averted.

The effect of the seizure threat—whether or not it is carried out—was to increase pressure on the industry to grant government-suggested wage boosts to Philip Murray's CIO union members.

About 700,000 of the union's one million members are ready for a walkout in the basic steel industry at midnight April 8. The other workers, mainly in steel fabricating plants, are ineligible to strike at the moment.

Seizure Threat
Steelmakers have said they cannot afford to give Murray the 17½ cent hourly pay boost, plus union shop and other benefits, without getting government permission to raise prices. The government apparently was standing firm against increase in prices, contending it would cause more inflation.

The seizure threat brought a heated reaction from Congress. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said it would be "very high-handed and arbitrary" and, to his mind, illegal.

Sen. George D. (D-Ga.) and Sen. Maybank (D-S.C.) also doubted legal authority for taking over the industry.

Must Be Certain of Law
Even government lawyers, instructed by John R. Steelman, acting defense mobilization boss, to "consider all eventualities," seemed none too sure of the legal basis for seizure.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont.) ordered the Senate Labor Committee staff to draft legislation spelling out seizure powers in more detail, including authority for the government's profits and to pay out wage boosts.

Fear Government Seizure
It was known that the steel industry long has feared government operation of its facilities, as has come about in so many foreign countries. Steel firms reportedly instructed their lawyers to be ready to fight any government move in that direction.

Long-delayed company-union negotiations again were scheduled to start in New York today but there was no indication of a break from either side. Murray, in New York for the negotiations, declined comment on the seizure talk.

Henry J. Kaiser announced last night that he had reached an agreement with the steelworkers based on the government's wage increase proposals covering more than 5,000 workers at Kaiser's Fontana plant in Southern California. This was the union's biggest settlement so far, but Kaiser is a relatively small producer.

Kaiser said he had given in to keep steel production going "during the crucial defense period" and was relying on the government to "grant the necessary and equitable steel price adjustment" later.

Steelworkers at the Fontana plant will get an average increase in 1952 of slightly over 18 cents an hour, including "straight salary" boosts and certain "fringe" benefits.

The boost will go up automatically to 26.1 cents an hour Jan. 1, 1953. On that day, the salary hike will be increased 2½ cents an hour and the workers will get an additional 3½ cents in Sunday premium pay.

The steel workers now average less than $2 an hour.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall, meanwhile, had new price talks arranged with Presidents Benjamin Fairless of U.S. Steel Corp. and Ben Moreell of Jones & Laughlin Steel.

'Magnolia Drive' Here In Sedalia

Alive With Blooms

The magnolias are in bloom in Sedalia.

All over town may be seen trees like bouquets of pink blossoms from the very little ones to very large ones, for magnolias start blooming when they are tiny young things and increase in beauty as they increase in size.

A drive around the three boulevards that form a horseshoe (and, someday, the Past Presidents Club of the Sedalia Garden Clubs hope will be known as Magnolia Drive) will be worthwhile. Magnolia trees planted on these boulevards by the Past Presidents Club are now in full bloom and are a picture of real beauty.

The drive is from Limit on West Third, to State Fair boulevard, south on State Fair boulevard to 16th and east on 16th to Barrett.

Can Require Electors Be Loyal to Party

Supreme Court Gives Decision On Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled that presidential elector candidates can be required to pledge loyalty to their national party.

The vote was 5 to 2. The decision was given on an appeal by the State Democratic Committee of Alabama—dominated by national party "loyalists"—from a ruling by the Alabama Supreme Court.

The Alabama court said a Democratic candidate for presidential elector could not be barred from the state's May 6 primary ballot because he refused to promise to cast his electoral vote for the presidential and vice presidential nominees of the Democratic national convention.

The candidate, Edmund Blair, an Alabama weekly newspaper publisher, said he would not vote for President Truman "or for anyone who advocates the Truman-Humphrey Civil Rights program."

Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) has been leading a proponent of the Truman administration's program for anti-lynching and anti-poll tax laws and a compulsory fair employment practice commission.

The Alabama litigation developed weeks before President Truman's announcement last Saturday night that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Today's Supreme Court decision order which said a full explanatory opinion would be handed down later.

Justices Douglas and Jackson dissented from the decision and Justices Black and Frankfurter dissented.

The court normally hands down its decisions only on Mondays, except when a matter of unusual importance is involved or the time element dictates immediate action.

Truman Orders Acheson To Turn Down Senate Request for His Files

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman today ordered Secretary of State Acheson to turn down a Senate committee request for detailed information and complete files on the State Department's loyalty-security cases.

The President told Acheson in a letter that granting the request would be "clearly contrary" to the public interest and means:

Drops Young Children Two Floors Into Arms Of Son As Home Burns

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Green, 48, a widowed mother, today dropped three of her young children from a second floor window into the arms of her 14-year-old son Robert to save them from their burning home.

An 18-year-old son, Lawrence, tried unsuccessfully to smother a blanket flames roaring from an oil burner. Then he picked up the small stove and hurled it out a window. He suffered serious burns.

Mrs. Green leaped from a window and suffered leg and hip injuries.

Plans Complete for Big, Gala Evening As Sedalia Goes On Parade Friday Night

Everything is set—everybody has cooperated in a big way. Now, if the weatherman will just do his part and send nice weather, Sedalia will have a night Friday night "Sedalia on Parade."

The hours when Sedalia and people from the surrounding communities will fill the downtown section to see the Sedalia on Parade with pictures, some living and some still, in the windows of Sedalia merchants, will be from 7 to 9 p. m.

The Missouri Pacific Women's Club, sponsoring this fun event, will have added attractions of music on the streets. A truck, furnished by Thompson-O'Connor Motor Company, will have a group of eight girls from the Sacred Heart High School music department and will start at Broadway and Ohio at 7 p. m.

The girls all voted winners, are Regina, Annette, Marie, Patricia Keating, Augustine Miles, Lorraine Johnson, Jeanie Weimholt, Betty Wolf and Barbara Frank.

The Notables, Rosy Ellis, Dell Mabry, Bob Chambers, Johnnie Herbst, a hill billy band, will be on a truck furnished by the W. A. Smith Motor Company and will start at Seventh and Lamine.

A group from Smith-Cotton High School, composed of Kenneth Buddis, Sonny Hume, Jack Logan, Benny Walker, Don Hoffman and Gene Watts, on a truck donated by Ewings, will start at Main and Kentucky.

The Eagle Minstrel may also be on the street, but due to the illness of several members, their plans are not definite.

The musical groups will ride in the trucks and now and then will move on to another spot for another program.

And so for two full hours—from 7 to 9 Friday night—there

Juliana Thanks America

Queen Warns US Not to Imitate Iron Curtain's Stress on Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—Queen Juliana of the Netherlands today urged Congress not to imitate Iron Curtain countries which place so much emphasis on defense that economic, social and cultural well-being suffer.

She also said in a speech prepared for delivery before a joint session of Congress less than 24 hours after her arrival yesterday:

European Unity Growing For Peacetime Development

1. The United States can count upon Netherlands support in the present divided world.

2. Her country, with the help of America, is able to "stand once more on our own feet" economically. She expressed thanks for the aid given.

3. She said European unity is growing and that "political integration" may come "perhaps eventually."

4. The world is split into two parts, the positive (democracy) and negative (slavery), and the negative pole will "have to yield" in time.

Major emphasis of the Queen's address, which she delivered in English, was on technical assistance. She said her country was helping the best of its ability by exporting skills and experts to less developed countries.

"Trust Your Judgment"
"It is my earnest hope that one memorable day the enormous increase of production now demanded by rearmament will be converted to meet the needs of these enormous development projects."

"The circle of countries around the North Atlantic Ocean should avoid imitating the example set by the countries behind the Iron Curtain, which have focused their minds so much on their defense that they forget to focus as much attention on their economic, social and cultural well-being. . . .

"If they do neglect these aspects, some day they might find themselves isolated around their ocean before, for instance, technical assistance could get underway properly, and link them with the world at large."

She ended by saying: "Mankind in its distress has to trust largely to your good judgment for its relief."

The speech was part of a fast-paced program that includes shaking thousands of hands at three receptions and donning a diamond tiara tonight for a formal dinner party.

The Queen and her husband, Prince Bernhard, are the first guests in the newly rebuilt White House. The President and Mrs. Truman moved back in only last Thursday after having lived across Pennsylvania Avenue at Blair House for three years.

There was a last-minute rush to get the place ready for the royal visitors. A small but formal luncheon will be given in the redecorated state dining room, but the White House staff, which includes many newcomers, was not considered ready to tackle the rigors of a formal state dinner last night, so it was held at the Carlton Hotel.

About 50 guests were invited to the dinner, given by the President and Mrs. Truman. For this event both Mr. Truman and the Queen wore grey evening gowns.

The Queen's gown was strapless but she wore with it a bolero of pearl gray chintilly lace. Her jewels included a diamond tiara and brilliant diamond brooch.

Truman told his guests that "we have with us what I like to refer to as the fairy queen. We had the fairy princess with us the time before—before she became Queen of England."

He referred to the visit last November of Queen Elizabeth II, then Princess Elizabeth.

The Queen and her party arrived late yesterday afternoon. It was raining lightly when she stepped from the plane.

Within an hour after her arrival she underwent the whole gamut of the American way of receiving high guests—so different from the Dutch. But to those who know her she seemed to cope with it excellently and clearly showed she liked it.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—President Truman said today he will not be a candidate for the Senate from Missouri or for any political office this year.

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—President Truman announced the resignation of Attorney General McGrath, a few hours after McGrath fired Newbold Morris from his job as the administration's corruption sleuth.

Gen. Vaughan Wants Truman Run for Senate

Tries to Start Movement to Get President In Race

ST. LOUIS, April 3 (AP)—The Post-Dispatch reported today that Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan is trying to start a movement to induce President Truman to seek election to his old seat in the Senate.

The president's military aide and close friend—also a Missouri man—has telephoned a number of Democratic leaders in Missouri sounding out sentiment, the newspaper said in a copyright story by Herbert A. Trask, its Missouri political correspondent.

Persons receiving calls from Vaughan, the newspaper said, are puzzled as to whether he is acting with Truman's knowledge.

"Other sources close to the president in Washington report that the 'odds are very great' against the president making the Senate race in his home state," the Post-Dispatch said.

It added that the president, who announced Saturday that he will not accept renomination for the presidency, had shown considerable interest last fall in the possibility of returning to the Senate but that persons close to him have the impression he now is much less interested.

John J. Nangle, Democratic national committeeman from Missouri, said several persons in Washington have been calling in Missouri in regard to the possibility the president might enter the Senate race.

Nangle, describing his position in the matter as neutral, said "It's up to the president to decide what he wants to do."

Three candidates already are in the race for the Democratic nomination for senator. The incumbent, James P. Kennon, the Republican incumbent and a bitter foe of the administration, is expected to run for re-election.

The Democratic candidates are J. E. Taylor, the state attorney general; W. Stuart Symington, the president's trouble shooter in several big jobs who recently resigned as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; and former Congressman Roger C. Slaughter of Kansas City.

Symington has said he isn't running as anybody's man, and that he doesn't claim Truman's support.

Taylor has been endorsed by the Kansas City Pendergast organization, which gave Truman his start in politics.

Naples Taking 2,000 Yanks In Its Stride

NAPLES (AP)—This strategic port city which has been host to foreign armies since the days of the Roman wars is taking some 2,000 new Americans in stride.

They're here—Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force—as part of the NATO Southern Europe Command center. Nearly 1,000 more, including French and British Military personnel, soon will join them.

Naples takes to them with a good-natured indifference. It's seen Americans before, during the war. Almost every Neapolitan family has some relative living in America, anyway.

Rents have sky-rocketed. That doesn't affect the average Neapolitan family. The city has 1½ million population, but they live in everything from caves in the Tuffa-rock hills to crowded tenement sections. The kind of apartments the American officers and their families are taking are few, and the higher prices do not extend on down the line.

Taxis cost more than in Rome, but they always did in this city where unemployment is at one of the highest levels in Italy. The public long ago learned to stretch the margin of profit as far as it will go.

They call the city Napoli, and speak what they fondly term "the Neapolitan language, not the mere Italian dialect."

Most of Italy's folk music is born here—plus a good share of her most famous seafoods and best loved pastas.

Streets are littered, and generally under repair that takes as long as the employment possibilities can be dragged out. Traffic gets along as it can—the Neapolitan uses the streets for strolling, games, or trade bazaars.

"We're adjusting to it," a higher officer said. "We have to." "After all," he explained, "it's their city. They aren't going to change just because we're here. We have to change to adapt to the conditions. We have to if we want harmony and to get our job done."

The Neapolitan doesn't really think his toes are being stepped on by the overseas newcomers and their families.

For one thing, they bring in a lot of dollars to a city of many jobless. They bring in American goods, all the way from cigarettes to washing machines, which liven the city's always thriving black market.

The cigarettes alone just about make it worth while. The Neapolitan "likes to look at now-quiet Vesuvius, towering over the bay, and comment wryly: "No wonder he's quit smoking. Can't stand Italian cigarettes!"

Besides, Neapolitans say they find the American "friendly and human." They like that in this city of easy pace and no great tendency to worry.

Should Stork Be Grounded To Stop Over Population?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people don't have enough worries in their own lifetime. So they worry about what kind of world their sons or grandsons will have to face.

Among these knights of the wrinkled brow one of the favorite frets is a fear that the earth will become overpopulated.

This was a phobia in certain circles long before Daniel Boone moved west because he felt cramped whenever neighbors moved within 40 miles of his cabin.

And today they can summon up a lot of statistics to bolster their contention that the stork ought to be grounded for too much overtime flying.

For example, they say, the big bird is delivering about 220,000 squalling little bundles every day throughout the world. Subtracting the people who give up the mortal struggle for one reason or another, the sun rises every morning on 75,000 more living human beings than it did the day before.

This is true even on cloudy mornings. The U. S. population is growing at the rate of more than four persons a minute, 250 an hour, 6,000 a day.

By 1975 the U. S. Census Bureau figures the U. S. population, now over 155 million will exceed 200 million.

million. And that means, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, that in 1975 there will be a fifth dinner plate set at every table where four people now sit.

Yes, for every four pounds of meat, four quarts of milk, and every four eggs we now produce, the American family will need another pound, another quart, and another egg—so that fifth person won't have to go hungry.

That will require 10 million more cattle, 20 million more hogs, 3,333,000 more sheep and lambs, 87 million more laying hens and six million more milk cows—unless the presents hens and cows can be talked into giving a little more for posterity.

Can the U. S. economy be geared up to meet that strain? Some alarmists say no—that our precious soil and other natural resources are already being wasted too fast as it is. Some of these soothsayers of disaster even believe only a terrible third world war or a fat plague will enable the teeming earth to solve the problem of "overpopulation."

But many scientists think the world is on the threshold of greater plenty rather than greater hunger. They feel that the wonders of chemical agriculture, new techniques of spurring plant and animal growth, better methods of preserving and storing food will mean fewer empty bellies rather than more.

It is the old battle of faith and doubt. My belief goes on the side of the test tube warriors, who have already done much to make the good earth better.

The globe is shrinking, but science is justifying the homely philosophy that guides many large families—"There's always enough to feed one more."

In any case, who is going to ground that stork? The cynic may bemoan the population growth. The wise man goes into the diaper business.

House Wary Of Test On Vatican Envoy

WASHINGTON — House members moved warily today toward a showdown on the question of United States diplomatic representation at Vatican City.

The issue comes to a head in a $1,069,992,859 appropriation bill financing the State, Justice, Commerce Departments for the 12 months starting July 1.

In the bill is a ban against use of State Department funds to finance a diplomatic mission to the Pope's headquarters unless the first head of that mission is confirmed by the Senate. The Senate last year adjourned without acting on President Truman's last-minute nomination of Gen. Mark Clark to be ambassador to the Vatican. The nomination was withdrawn at Clark's request.

Rep. Rooney (D-NY) has announced he will try to knock out the new bill's provision, which another Democrat, Rep. O'Toole of New York, has called "a shameful subterfuge."

Rep. Preston (D-Ga.), sponsor of the provision which the Appropriations Committee approved, 19-17, last week, is ready to defend it.

Preston told newsmen it is not aimed at the Catholic Church and would not prevent the President from sending a personal representative to the Pope, as president Roosevelt did.

Tennessee GOPs Give Taft 19 of 20 Votes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio can count on 19 of Tennessee's 20 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

The Tennessee GOP Convention yesterday named four more Taft delegates, bringing the total for the Ohio senator in this state to 19. The twentieth delegates will be named when the Eighth Congressional District Convention is held May 2.

Included in the at-large delegates named yesterday was State Chairman Guy L. Smith, editor of the Knoxville Journal.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the convention keynoteer, declared that he was "heart and soul for Bob Taft. He's got what it takes."

He added that the country "is to be congratulated" by President Truman's decision not to seek reelection.

Merchant Views 'Sedalia on Parade'

By Damon Hieronymus

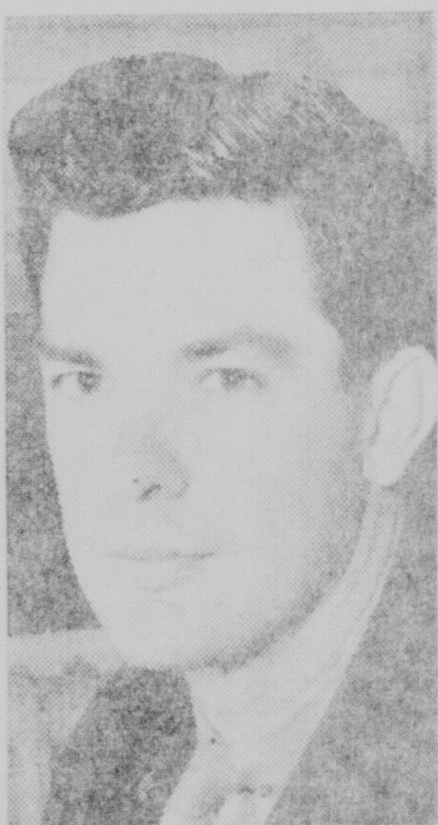

Sedalia merchants will put their best foot forward Friday night in the "Sedalia on Parade" event sponsored by the Missouri Pacific Women's Club.

Many of the store windows will have living models for displaying the fine and useful articles of merchandise available to the people who shop in Sedalia. Other windows, while live models will not be used, will display fine wares in attractive settings.

The merchants with whom I have talked plan a great effort to have their windows so attractive as to be well worth the time the visitors use in coming to see them.

With the press of present day living, it is practically impossible for anyone to know all of the fine and useful articles carried in stock of Sedalia merchants.

"Sedalia on Parade" will show outstanding merchandise that is readily available to the consumers of the Sedalia trade territory. The Sedalia merchants sincerely hope you will share our enthusiasm for this event.

Herman Bloess New President Of Country Club

Herman E. Bloess was elected president of the Sedalia Country Club at a recent meeting of the board of directors with other officers as follows: William A. Schien, vice-president; Dr. Floyd L. Lively, secretary and Dr. J. E. Cannaday, treasurer.

Mr. Bloess has appointed all of his committee chairmen. They are: William A. Schien, membership committee; L. H. Archias Jr., house committee; T. W. Cloney II and C. Damon Hieronymus, chairman of the men's golf committee; John R. Van Dyne, swimming pool committee; Frank W. Hayes, finance burget committee; Mrs. C. A. Wright, women's golf committee; C. D. Hieronymus, caddie committee; John T. Martin, greens and grounds committee; Dr. F. L. Lively, stag.

One example of waste, he said, was the building of $22,000 Army houses on Okinawa. A commercial company, on the other hand, erected "adequate" homes alongside the Army houses for about $8,600 each.

Deckers to California

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Decker and family, Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia, left by plane for a vacation to California where they will visit relatives and friends.

Commie Chairman In Maryland Jailed

BALTIMORE — George A. Meyers, 39-year-old chairman of the Communist party in Maryland, will begin a 30-day jail term tomorrow for refusing to answer questions as a witness in his trial on Communist conspiracy charges.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut imposed the 30-day sentence for contempt of court yesterday. However the judge agreed to delay for the start of the sentence until Friday, when Meyers and five co-defendants, convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by force, come up for sentencing.

Showers For Recent Bride

Mrs. John W. Wilson, formerly Shirley Morton Cooper, was honored with several bridal showers.

A miscellaneous shower was given March 11, at the home of Mrs. Grace Lindsey, mother of the bridegroom.

The evening was spent playing games after which the bride opened her gifts.

Refreshments were served to the following: the honoree, Mrs. Porter Morton, Mrs. J. E. Closser, Mrs. Leon Clark, Mrs. George Wheatley, Mrs. Everett Williams, Mrs. Connie Ratburn, Miss Lottie Combs, Mrs. Ruben Logan, Mrs. Elwood Toliver, Mrs. Frankie Donath, Mrs. Russell Cusick, Mrs. Essie Scott and Mrs. Ada Scott.

A bridal shower was given by Mrs. Patsy Lawson and Mrs. Clara Henderson at their home 666 East Tenth.

The diversion of the evening was playing games and the bride found her gifts beneath an umbrella on the dining table.

Those attending were Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Porter Morton, Mrs. Grace Lindsey, Mrs. Wayne Morton, Mrs. Howard Darrill, and Joyce, Mrs. Norma Hill and Miss Mary Jo Henderson.

Refreshments were served by the two hostesses.

D. of J. Has Easter Hat Show

What the best dressed lady will wear for Easter was revealed to members of the Daughters of Isabella at a party held March 26th at the K. of C. hall, when a pre-Easter hat fashion show was held.

A basket trimmed with green grass, baby ducks and eggs was voted the most outstanding Easter bonnet and was worn by Mrs. Fred Scott, while the creation from a lamp shade topped with flowers and frilly cups and worn by Mrs. Earl Paxton was second.

Games were played and refreshments served by the committee composed of Mrs. Larry Shoon, chairman; Mrs. Joe Simon, Mrs. Leo Hein, Mrs. Jake Krouse, Mrs. Charles Mulcahey and Mrs. B. J. Bohner.

Five candidates were obligated at the business meeting which preceded the party. They were Mrs. Fred Scott, Mrs. Margaret Goss, Mrs. Leo Coffey, Mrs. Fred Schoenen and Miss Mary Agnes Coffey. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Fred Bialy, regent, and the attendance record was received by Mrs. Hugh Wason.

Mrs. Fritz Visits Here

Shirley Cooper Weds John Wilson

The marriage of Mrs. Shirley Morton Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Morton, 406 East Fifth, and John W. Wilson, son of Mrs. Dewey Lindsey, 1100 East 13th, was solemnized at 7 o'clock Friday evening, March 14. The Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony.

For her wedding the bride chose a navy blue suit with pale blue accessories and her corsage was of white gladioli.

Mrs. Patsy Lawson, the bride's only attendant, wore a grey suit with navy accessories and her corsage was of yellow gladioli.

Donald Morton, brother of the bride, served as best man.

A small reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School with the class of 1949 and is now employed at the F. W. Woolworth Company store.

The bridegroom served four years in the Army and is now employed at Kilroy's Army Store.

The couple is at home at 406 East Fifth.

Reception For Windsor Couple

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reynolds, who were recently married, was given at the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norvel Embree in Windsor.

On the bride's table was a large two tiered wedding cake on which was a miniature bride and bridegroom. At the other end of the table was an arrangement of pink and white snapdragons.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds plan a trip soon to Alaska.

Germ Photos Of Harmless, Tiny Insects

New York Times
Says Expert Views
China Red Pictures

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times today published what it called conclusive evidence of the falsity of Communist photo charges that the United States is waging germ warfare in North Korea and China.

The evidence consisted of statements by American experts on pictures which the Chinese Reds originally printed in the Peiping People's Daily March 15 as proof of the charges against the U.S.

These American experts said the pictures, identified in the Chinese captions as those of deadly bugs dropped by U.S. invaders, were actually photos of harmless insects incapable of carrying disease, the Times said.

The U.S. Army, furthermore, identified a bomb which the Chinese claimed was a germ carrier as an M1621 used for spreading psychological warfare leaflets, the Times said.

The newspaper devoted a column on Page 1 plus six more inside to the story, including reproduction of fine pictures from the Peiping paper.

The Times said experts consulted about the pictures were Dr. C. H. Curran, chief curator of insects and spiders at the American Museum of Natural History; Dr. Rene Dubos, bacteriologist of the Rockefeller Institute, and Army spokesmen.

The Chinese labeled one picture "poisonous insects which could fly, crawl and swim dropped on Chinese territory by U.S. invaders." Dr. Curran said the picture actually shows several stone flies in a petri dish, a glass commonly used in laboratories.

"These perfectly harmless creatures are often found in large numbers within varying distances from water, in which the larvae live. Their flight is slow and because they are poor fliers they would be extremely poor at disseminating disease even if they could be inoculated."

17 Drown In Mine

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Seventeen Chinese drowned when water flooded from an unused pit into a busy coal mine in north Formosa yesterday.

Victims included a small girl who had gone into the mine to play while her mother worked. The others were miners, both men and women, including the child's mother.

Merchant Views 'Sedalia on Parade'

By Mrs. Willard Savage

I understand I am one of the few merchants in Sedalia who has seen such a program as "Sedalia on Parade" which will be held Friday night under the sponsorship of the Missouri Pacific Women's Club.

In Springfield, before we moved to Sedalia, the merchants of that city carried out such a program several times a year and it was always one of the big events of the season.

No cars were parked in the business district, and there would not have been room for them if they had been allowed in the area. The crowds were huge and all who attended had a most enjoyable time.

The merchants' windows were attractively decorated and living models in many windows added much to the displays.

All who attend "Sedalia on Parade" Friday night 7 to 9 p. m. will find the same pleasure and entertainment, I am certain. The merchants certainly bid you welcome.

Terrence Gets Death Sentence for Murder Of Wife's Attorney

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A criminal court jury early today convicted Roy Terrence, 45, of murdering attorney Francis J. McCormack and fixed his punishment at death in the electric chair.

A son, Leonard, 2, also is charged with murder in McCormack's death and will be tried later.

Formal sentencing of the elder Terrence will await a ruling on a motion for a new trial which defense attorney Sandy Paniello said he would file.

McCormack, who had represented Leonard's wife in court actions against him, disappeared Feb. 28 shortly after leaving a grocery store near his home. His concrete-weighted body was recovered from Harrod's Creek, near Jeffersonton March 8.

Leonard, a soldier absent without official leave from Fort Knox, confessed he and his father abducted McCormack, killed him and threw his body into the creek.

Trapped Red-Vietminh Apparently Giving Up

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Three Communist-led Vietminh battalions pocketed by French Union forces between the Song Trai and Red Rivers appeared today to be giving up the fight and running for their lives.

French naval units patrolling the coast of the Gulf of Tonkin nipped attempts by the Vietminh to escape by sea or flee along the coast.

The French high command said total enemy losses in the operation, which began March 26, were 1,180 killed and 1,200 taken prisoner. That accounts for two of the five battalions which made a determined bid to get a foothold in the Red River Delta and hold such a position until reinforcements might arrive to help in the attempt to sever French communication lines between Hanoi and the port of Haiphong.

'USSR Go Home'

PARIS (AP)—Parisians are used to seeing the Communist slogan "U. S. Go Home" painted on walls all over the city. But they goggled a bit today at a new sign painted on a wall near the Arc de Triomphe: "U. S. S. R. Go Home."

Airport Fairness Promised

Gen. Vandenberg Says No Arbitrary Action Will Come Against Operators

FT. WORTH, Tex.—Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, was declared today to have ruled out arbitrary action by the Air Force against operators of the airports it would like to take over.

R. B. (Pop) Gregg, manager of the Ontario, Calif., international airport, said Vandenberg gave this assurance two weeks ago in a letter to Rep. Sheppard, D-Calif., vice chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Gregg told the American Association of Airport Executives, at its convention here, Vandenberg wrote Sheppard that the Air Force will treat the airports fairly, and that each airport acquisition case will be taken up individually.

Protest to Vandenberg

Gregg said he had asked Sheppard to protest to Vandenberg against "a helluva lot of damned Joe Stalin tactics" on the part of the Air Force.

He said a Maj. Gen. Harry M. Johnson, with a party of 11 men, had called on Ontario and announced he wanted to station 1,750 reservists there, would install nine million dollars worth of buildings, and wanted a certain parcel of airport land.

Gregg said he told Johnson the land had been leased to Lockheed Air Service Corp., a defense effort, and was not available.

Wanted Long-Si Lease

Johnson said he wanted the land at $1 a year for 99 years," Gregg continued.

"Vandenberg said he is willing to pay an equitable amount."

"I think we ought to find out who is who in the Air Force—who we are going to talk to and who we are going to listen to," Col. Dudley Eaton, representing the air bases division of the Air Force, asked by Gregg to comment, said.

"I'm sorry, but I'm incapable of umpting and argument between Gen. Vandenberg and Gen. Johnson."

Does Not Need Airport

Gregg said the Air Force has since decided it does not need the airport. He said he is arranging leases with Northrop and Republic Aircraft Companies and the Guilford Radio Manufacturing Concern.

"Next Tuesday I am negotiating with the California Air National Guard," he said.

"They will take 30 acres but will put money in to extend the runway and will pay their way on the same basis as the other tenants."

R. W. W. (Bob) Schmidt, manager of the Tucson, Ariz., Airport Authority, complained the Air Force had informed him it was "recapturing" his airport, only to notify him later it had changed its mind.

Evicted Tenants Angry

Schmidt said the airport is that two tenants, who were evicted to make room for the Air Force, are threatening legal action against the airport authority.

The airport managers adopted a resolution asking that the air force be required to channel its expenditures on civil airports through the civil aeronautics administration (CAA).

Harvey Dow Files For Representative

Mrs. Anna McNeal
Mrs. Anna McNeal, 84, died at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. P. Myers in Syracuse. She previously resided in Tipton, going to the Myers home several months ago.

Mrs. McNeal was born March 7, 1868 in Morgan County, daughter of Jack and Katie Tyree, and on July 9, 1884 was married to Henry McNeal who preceded her in death on March 3, 1943. She was also preceded in death by two children, a son, Charles, who died at the age of 15 months, and a daughter, Belle, who died at the age of nine, four brothers and five sisters.

Two daughters survive, Mrs. Willis Hays, Tipton, and Mrs. Myers, at whose home she died, six grandchildren, three great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. John Littleton, Belle, Mo.

Mrs. McNeal was a member of the Baptist Church with which she united in girlhood.

Funeral services will be held at Olive Branch Baptist Church at 2:30 p. m. Friday, the Rev. R. C. Canra, Tipton, to officiate. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The body was taken to the Richards Funeral Home and Thursday was taken to the Mrs. Willis Hays residence to remain until time to leave for the church services.

Mrs. William T. Hayes
Mrs. Ella Harmon Hayes, 77, widow of William T. Hayes, died Tuesday morning at her home, five miles northeast of Sweet Springs.

She was the mother of Henry Hayes, Sedalia; five other sons, Walter and Harry Hayes, of the home, Lester Hayes, West Liberty, O., Ernest Hayes, Wayne, Okla.; Norval Hayes, Kansas City; and a daughter, Mrs. Elmer Carr, Sweet Springs. Fourteen grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Sweet Springs Baptist Church.

Mrs. Philip Reinsch
Mrs. Philip Reinsch, 83, a former Sedalia and sister of Louis Bahrenburg, 907 West Broadway, died Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma McCormack, in Denver, Colo. She had been ill four years.

Surviving are: two sons, Oscar Reinsch of Staten Island, N. Y., and Hugo Reinsch, Greenville, Miss.; three daughters, Mrs. McCormack of Denver, Mrs. Olga Dodd, Chicago, and Mrs. Alma Andrews of Baltimore; a sister, Mrs. P. H. Bockelman of Cole Camp, and the brother, Louis Bahrenburg.

Charles H. Cordes
Charles H. Cordes, 80, died at 8 a. m. Wednesday at his home near Mora. He was the son of Claus and Metta Hobbs Cordes and was born April 19, 1872 and spent the greater portion of his life in the Mora vicinity.

On May 27, 1902 he was married to Maria Renken, who with three children Nora, Annie and Elmer, survive, the two daughters living at the home and Elmer at Springfield. Two sisters also survive, Mrs. Emma Young Cole Camp, and Mrs. Annie Eckhoff, also of that place and a brother Otto Cordes, Springfield.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Holy Cross Lutheran Church near Cole Camp, the Rev. John Deye to officiate.

Palbearers will be Emil Meyer, John Eckhoff, Herman Cordes, Wilbur Hobbs, Walter Heimsoth and Allen Oels.

Burial will be in Memorial Cemetery at Cole Camp.

The body, which was taken to the Eickhoff Funeral Home, will be returned to the family home Thursday evening to remain until time for the services.

Morals, Crime Issue Traced For Kiwanians

If the crime and morals problem in the United States is going to be minimized, individuals must strengthen their own moral backbone, declared Acting Prosecuting Attorney Harold E. Bamberg, at a timely address before the Sedalia Kiwanis Club, of which he is a member, at the club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

Often there is slight differentiation between violations of the legal or moral codes, the speaker said, pointing out business ethics are often transgressed this side of criminality. Before there is lessening of crime in and out of government the citizenry must get to the roots of moral crime, which demand a revived interest in citizenship, and the nomination and election of men of character.

Sylvan Woolery was program chairman.

President Walter Kennedy announced there would be a meeting of the board of directors in Bothwell Hotel Friday noon at which time committee chairmen will submit written reports of their March activities.

Mr. Woolery announced that next Thursday the club would lunch at the hotel as usual and then go to the Fifth Street Methodist Church to participate in the Lenten services.

Guests Thursday were: Kiwanian Ed Denning, St. Louis; Ray Martin, St. Louis; Harold Bamberg, George Miller with Pinkney Miller, and H. M. Anderson with W. P. Hurley.

Eight King Bill Road Projects Okayed for Pettis

The Pettis County Board has approved eight King Bill road projects to be built this year. The court authorized Judge J. V. Kesterson, presiding judge, to sign the necessary forms for these road projects.

Project 32-7 is for 1.7 miles in vicinity of La Monte, a school bus route.

Project 32-8 is for three miles to the extreme southwest part of the county, which is a portion of a mail route.

Project 32-9 is for 6.1 miles, a part mail route and part milk route. It is located north of Newland and west of Lookout neighborhoods.

Project 32-10 is for one mile north of Dresden.

Project 32-11 is for two miles north of Beaman and east from the Pettis-Cooper county line.

Project 32-12 is for 1.5 miles northeast of Lookout and from the Cooper-Pettis county boundary. It is a mail route.

Project 32-13 is for three miles, north of Bahrer, and is part mail and part milk route.

Project 32-14 is for 3.6 miles west of La Monte and south from highway 50. This route is part mail and a school bus route.

Jack Jones' Grant City Band Receives Top Rating in Contest

The Grant City school band, directed by Jack Jones, former Sedalia, received a No. 1 rating at the Albany Music Festival held last Friday, sponsored by the Three Arts Club of Albany. Numbers played by the band were "The Merry Maiden Overture" by Fulten.

The Grant City band will play at the music contest at Northwest Missouri State College at Maryville this week.

Mr. Jones, a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Jones, 421 West 11th, is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, and for the past two years, with his wife and daughter, has resided in Grant City.

New Traffic Lights At Third and Missouri

Traffic control lights have been placed at Third and Missouri and also at Broadway and Ohio avenue. The lights under new operation will not be ready for several days until the proper hookups can be made.

At Broadway and Ohio the lights govern through traffic as well as handle left-hand turns. The traffic lights are working here with the exception of the left hand turn control, which will not be ready for some time.

The Third and Missouri lights govern through traffic only.

Milton Oil Company, Which Started In Sedalia, Honors Men Who Have Been With Firm for Quarter of a Century

Several Sedalians Receive Watches As 'Honor Men'

Men who have been with the Milton Oil Company for 25 years or more, some of them having been with the firm since its inception here in Sedalia some 32 years ago, were honored at a district sales meeting held Tuesday night at the Bothwell Hotel.

Officials of the company, from the home office which is now located in St. Louis, were present for the ceremony during which the honorees were presented gold watches.

Honored were: Walter Dobel, manager of the home station since the beginning, Lloyd King, Sedalia, Carl Jarshwitch, Sedalia, O. E. Dye of Marshall, whose son has taken over his duties, Robert Reed, Sedalia, Newton Goode, Boonville, Bud Griffith, mayor of Blackwater, and H. M. Fredkin, former Sedalian now assistant to the president and in the St. Louis office.

Sam Milton, vice-president, made the presentation of the watches following the dinner.

Walter Hamburg, St. Louis, sales manager, was in charge. He introduced Charles Kelley, general manager of the Milton Oil Co., and Ray Luehder, manager of the Milton Auto Supply Co., who were also here from St. Louis.

Some 40 men from over the district were present, coming from as far as Lexington and Eldon.

In a short address during the evening, Mr. Milton reviewed in part the beginning of the firm in Sedalia 32 years ago by Harry Milton, Al Dodge and C. M. E. Reeves. They had a station at Fifth and Osage and their oil business began with a carload of kerosene which was hauled from the railway station in a large drum in a wagon.

The business followed the roads as they became highways, opening other stations at various points, until today there are hundreds of outlets in Missouri, Southern Illinois, Kansas and Arkansas. Al Rosenthal, Sedalia, is manager for the area which was included in Tuesday's meeting. It was one of a series being held over the state to honor the men who have long tenure.

Part of Mr. Milton's remarks are as follows:

Sometimes it is hard to realize that this company had its beginning something over 30 years ago. True, a number of things have changed in that period of time: yet a great deal has remained—comfortably and gratifyingly—the same. We have come a long way from a carload of kerosene, sold in small quantities by E. H. Milton and Sons to light the lamps of Sedalia. Customers carried it away in cans, sometimes with potatoes for stoppers.

Our company has come far even from a tank-wagon (and it was really a wagon in those days) from which the first load of gasoline was poured into the storage tank of the Home Oil Company through a garden hose.

Our present organization, with its numerous bulk plants, large tank-trucks, and several hundred outlets, covers great areas of Missouri and Illinois. We can all be proud of the progress that the past years have seen.

But it is the one element in the growth of the Milton Oil Company which has not changed that has made all the rest possible. I refer, of course, to the hard-working, intelligent, cooperative, intensely loyal group of men who have stayed with the company through all its growth and development, through the fat years and the lean, and who have

HONOR MEN RECEIVE WATCHES—Sam Milton, St. Louis, front center, is shown presenting gold watches to the men who have been with the Milton Oil Co. for 25 years or more. built, with their own hands and brains, the organization of today.

Naturally, the physical growth of the Milton Oil Company has meant a lot to all of us. In our early days there were fewer cars on the highways, and indeed, there were hardly any highways, as we know them today. Not yet were "40" and "50" and "65" and "66" pieces of American geography well-known as St. Louis and Chicago and Kansas City and Los Angeles.

Along the rutted roads we traveled, marked with state numbers on telephone poles, and sometimes relieved by brief stretches of tar or brick. We put out a few orange "Dixcel" signs, advising motorists that "A Trial Tells." And from Sedalia, with its names that already had a particular meaning for us, names like "Home Oil" and "New Navy," we began to expand.

There was a rise in the sale of orange paint in many towns throughout Central Missouri; and from that territory, we were able to move even farther afield. We entered the "Big City" of our area, St. Louis; and by the time the company had reached the ripe old age of five, it was established in its "Three C's" of Southern Illinois: Cairo, Carbondale, and Centralia. In another direction, we went to Springfield, Mo., where we opened a territory in 1926. And in all these territories we have worked and grown.

All of the developments entailed a great deal more paperwork than was necessary for the operation of one service station at Fifth and Osage; and so our office has grown apace. From the balcony of what would now be called an "old-fashioned grocery store, it came downstairs and moved two doors along the street to a small house.

The rear wall of that house proved to be disturbingly temporary, as the expansion of business forced two enlargements, until the back yard had completely disappeared. Still more expansion was eventually necessary, but by this time we had found that Sedalia was no longer a practical center of operations.

And so, as you all know, we took the big step. In 1937 we built the new office on the site of the St. Louis bulk plant, on Clayton Road, and on the first day of the following year, we moved our headquarters to its present location.

Douglas explained the men all volunteered—after their local relief boards suggested they'd better learn to work or face prosecution.

"We have 20 at the moment—all individualists who for various reasons have been out of work so long they've lost the desire to start again," Douglas said. "It's our job to give them back that desire."

He said the school has been getting good results through constant, but subtle, prodding. But it doesn't plunge the lazy deep into work all at once. They learn in easy stages—first domestic chores around the school, then gardening and finally a job in a nearby factory.

1,200,000 New Men Must Join Services For 110,000 Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manpower officials say an increase of 110,000 men in the armed forces during the fiscal year starting July 1 means about 1,200,000 new men must don uniforms.

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, defense manpower boss, told the House Appropriations Committee in testimony made public yesterday that the large majority of new recruits will merely replace those relieved from active duty.

"We are in effect running a revolving door," she said. "This is expensive and takes a great deal more manpower."

Of the 1,200,000 new men, all but 110,000 will replace 850,000 inducted and enlisted men whose terms are about to expire, and 250,000 reservists and National Guard personnel soon to be released.

The increase of 110,000 will build up the military forces to 3,700,000. Mrs. Rosenberg said in testimony supporting the 1953 defense budget.

all about it. Besides, it was more my fault than yours."

"Then the war is over?"

"And the peace treaty is signed," she finished.

"Good!" But he wondered if it was.

Presently, the waitress delivered his order and also a fresh cup of coffee for Verna.

"Now, while you're syringing those flapjacks, suppose you begin to unfold your plan of attack. Just how are you gonna break up this romance between Chief Big Bear and Sutworth's daughter?"

HE was equally concerned with what he would do and also equally puzzled. "I'm not sure just yet," he replied. He sliced through a layer of butter and syrup. "I've got to look the town over first and get the lay of the land."

"We could ambush them," she suggested.

"He's out of season. Anyhow, I just want to break up the romance, not shoot it up."

George was creasing his brow with thought. The most logical move, he decided, was to prove that Chief Big Bear was not what Marilyn Sutworth believed him to be. Proving that the ex-wrestler actually was a fortune hunter would be best, and George could do that by buying Big Bear off. Sutworth would be willing to foot the bill. He looked at Verna.

She sipped at her coffee. "Well, you'd better not waste too much time. If Big Bear is after Marilyn Sutworth's money, he'll ask her to marry him at the first opportune moment."

"I know. I'll have to work plenty fast. I was thinking of buying him off, but I don't know if it'll work."

"There's one way to find out," Kendall saw himself confronting the wrestler and offering a bribe to break up the romance. In his mind's eye, he saw Chief Big Bear growing suddenly angry. The wheateakes didn't taste so good, he decided, and he pushed them aside. "Bottoms up," he said, clinking his cup against hers. "We've got a big day ahead of us. Even the coffee tasted flat."

WHEN George Kendall awoke it was daylight. For a moment he was dazed. The bulb in the ceiling was still burning and suddenly he realized he'd fallen asleep without even undressing. He crawled off the bed and stood up, stretching some of the stiffness out of his legs. He looked at his watch and was surprised to see that it was nine o'clock.

He went to the wash basin in the corner and sprinkled cold water on his face. He hadn't often slept this long before and he wondered if Verna Denton was up yet.

He knocked at her door a few minutes later, but there was no answer. He knocked again, this time a little louder. Still there was no reply.

"Verna! Verna are you up?" He tried the door, but it was locked. Maybe she'd thought things over and checked out. He'd find out at the desk.

He hurried down the stairs and rushed up to the desk. "Did Miss Denton check out?" he inquired.

The old man behind the desk dropped the racing sheet he was reading. He lifted the green shade he wore and scratched his bald dome. "Miss Denton?"

"Verna Denton, Room 301."

"Yeah, I remember. She's that slick black-haired girl."

"Yes, yes. Tell me, did she check out, or didn't she?"

"Check out? Why no, not rightly."

that I know. Are you Mr. Kendall?"

"Kendall is the name," he snapped.

"Well, Kendall, this here black-haired girl left a message. Got it right here somewhere." He was fumbling in his vest pocket. "Yes, here it is. Says she'll meet you at Bingo's luncheon. That's across the street, you know."

Without knowing why, Kendall felt a wave of relief sweep over him. It wasn't love, though. Of that, he was certain. He thanked the desk man and hurried across the street to the luncheon.

HE saw Verna at once. She was at a table in the corner, a cup of coffee and a newspaper in front of her. As he started toward her, she looked up from her newspaper. Her eyes were circled, but she was smiling. "Lazybones. I was getting ready to go over there and drag you out of bed by the hair of your toes."

She's her old self, he thought. "Overslept. I must be working too hard."

"Doing what?" she wanted to know. "Incidentally, you look like something the cat dragged in. Sit down before you fall down."

He pulled a chair out and sat down. "Do I look real bad?"

"I've seen worse," she answered. "Put on your smile. Here comes a waitress."

He ordered wheateakes and coffee, the coffee black. Turning back to Verna, he said, "Have you learned anything yet?"

"About what?" she asked. "This Chief Big Bear."

"I was going to do a little snooping, but then I thought it over and decided to wait until Mighty Mouse got up."

He didn't particularly relish her remark, but he was glad to see her in such good spirits, though he didn't know why. "By the way," he said, "I'm sorry about last night."

"Last night? Oh, I'd forgotten."

Wilson's Resignation Proves That Truman's Policies Will Not Change

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Politicians are wondering whether President Truman's determination not to run again will change any of his policies. The answer is best illustrated by Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson's resignation—namely, "it won't."

Truman knew when he had his final argument with Wilson that he had no further need to seek labor votes or kick big business in the teeth. Nevertheless, he battled for the steelworkers' wage increase just as he had during seven previous years in the White House.

The storm over steel was already brewing when Charles Wilson attended the cabinet meeting last Friday. Anyone who looked carefully could see it in his ruddy face. The big defense mobilizer who worked his way up from a $3-a-week electrical worker to $175,000-a-year head of General Electric, sat and sulked. Everyone else at the cabinet meeting was welcoming the President, telling him how well he looked, chatting about the Jackson-Jefferson dinner, but not Wilson.

He sat back and glowered.

In some ways, you couldn't blame Wilson for saying nothing. The cabinet meeting was short, sweet and social, with no important problems discussed and the President dropping not a word about his political plans.

After the meeting, the big defense mobilizer went up to the President and talked privately. It was obvious from the look on Charles's face that the two men were near the breaking point.

That same afternoon, however, they held one final session at the White House. This time with Economic Stabilizer Eugene P. Price and Stabilizer Ellis Arnall present. Technically, under Wilson, Putnam and Arnall differed vigorously with him over increasing steel prices, and the final White House session was to let President Truman make the last decision.

Wrecking Inflation

The issue was quite simple and the conferees got down to it quickly. Putnam, a New England manufacturer, and Arnall, former governor of Georgia, claimed the steel industry was making huge excess profits, could afford to deduct the proposed wage boost out of profits.

Wilson, however, claimed the 26-cents-an-hour wage increase recommended by the wage stabilization board must be offset by increasing the price of steel. He also claimed President Truman had gone back on a previous agreement on this point made at Key West.

"If your reasoning is correct," Price Administrator Arnall told Wilson, "you might as well abolish my office of price stabilization and make it an appendage of the wage stabilization board. Then every time you gave a wage boost, you would give a price boost. However that's not stopping inflation. That is wrecking things."

"The wage stabilization board has already wrecked things," countered Wilson.

"Not unless we grant a price increase," shot back his subordinate, Price Administrator Arnall.

"Then there'll be a strike," argued Wilson.

"Well, we can't let industry and labor bulldoze us with the threat of a strike," replied the ex-governor of Georgia. "If, every time there's a strike threat, we grant a price increase, every group in the country is going to threaten a strike. You can't stop inflation by retreating."

Economic Stabilizer Putnam backed Arnall up. And after listening carefully, so did the President. The meeting adjourned with the understanding that the nation would have to risk a steel strike rather than grant any price increase—other than about $2.50 a ton under the Caphart amendment.

Defense Mobilizer Wilson thereupon went back to his office and wrote out his resignation.

Merry-Go-Round

On the day President Truman moved back into a completely rebuilt White House, Westbrook Pegler entered a Boston hospital. Maybe the shock was too great. Pegler had argued that the White House ought to be destroyed. It is symbolic of royalty and privilege and of the voracious infestation of the American government by traitors, vile opportunists peddling imperial favor and trimming suckers." . . . Matt Connelly's jaw almost dropped off when he heard his boss, the President, announce he wouldn't run again. Though a White House secretary, Matt made it all too clear he wasn't in the know. . . . Said magnanimous Jonathan Daniels, first Truman biographer, to recent biographer Bill Hillman, author of "Mr. President": "Your sense of timing was better than mine." . . . Attorney General McGrath may not be efficient, but at least he's frank. He now admits that he didn't really expect Newbold Morris to do a real job of investigating the justice department, after all.

Political Underground

Taft people talk more and more of a convention deadlock at Chicago, in which case some want a deal with General MacArthur—Mac for President; Taft for vice president. They figure Taft would end up in the White House before the end of the term. . . . What some GOP leaders don't realize is that, with a preponderance of democratic voters in the nation, they need a candidate who will woo Democrats. The two Republicans who can do it best are Eisenhower and Warren of California. . . . Charles Van Devander, retired publicity expert for the Democratic national committee, may be replaced by astute Tim McNerny, former brain trust for Tom Clark. . . . Twice in the past two weeks, the president has pulled the rug out from under his Democratic party chief, Frank McKinney, once at Key West when he denied the question of running again was linked with the Korean truce; again at the Jefferson-Jackson dinner when Truman spilled the no-run beans without tipping a word to McKinney first. . . . The palace guard is also trying to pull the rug out from under McKinney. He is not easy enough for them to handle.

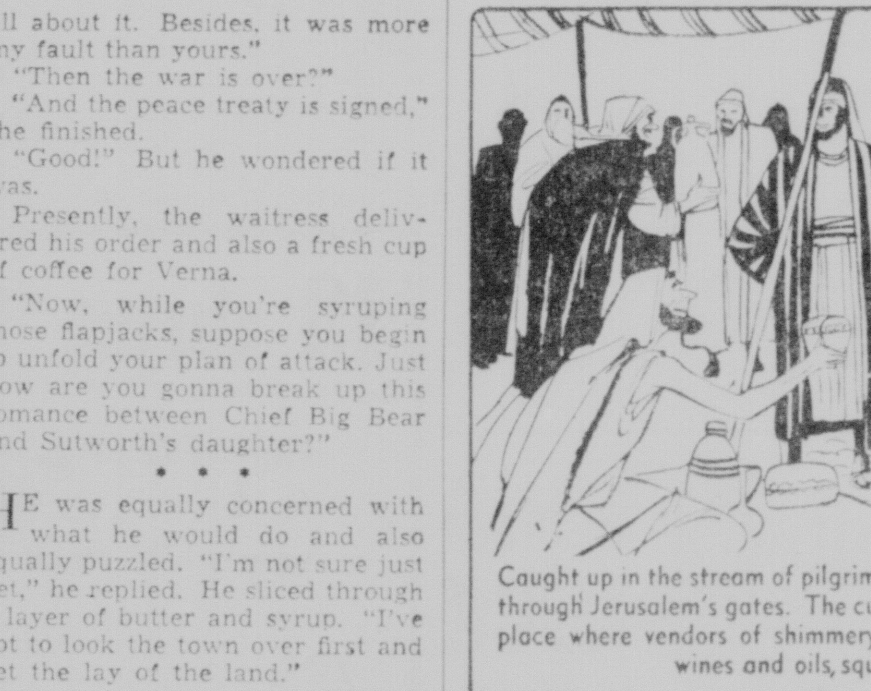

Under The Dome

Senate investigators have uncovered another tanker scandal. It involves the North American Shipping and Trading Company, which racked up a fabulous profit on a dozen tankers and liberty ships sold by the government for a song. Under the law, the ships were supposed to be sold only to American citizens. But the investigators found that the company was just a front for Stravos Naichos, a Greek citizen, who financed the deal behind the scenes for three million dollars. . . . The OPS is removing price controls from more expensive ladies' dresses. . . . Hate-mongers from all over the country met in Columbus, Ga., recently to plan a hate campaign against the United Nations and minority groups. Tom Hamilton of the South Carolina Ku Klux Klan and Bill Hendrix, the Florida Ku Kluxer, harangued the meeting. . . . Government clean-up man Newbold Morris is so determined to win Senate support that he is making personal calls on all but three senators. He hopes to visit one senator in the morning and two in the afternoon every day until he has talked to all 93. The three he won't bother with are McCarthy of Wisconsin, Nixon of California and Mundt of South Dakota, who opposed him in committee.

Mike is just a little black dog half cocker spaniel and half goodness knows what. He is jet black, his body is long and so are his ears. His tail and his legs are short and his big brown eyes have a sad look. They probably look sadder now—because Mike is lost—but they are not any sadder than Carol's, his nine year old owner.

Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Overfelt, 602 West Sixteenth, and a pupil at Broadway school. Mike has been her constant companion, when she wasn't in school, for the past four years. He was a birthday present to her four years ago.

Monday night the Overfelt family started somewhere in their car and Mike was left behind. It wasn't nice for the family to go off and leave him alone, thought Mike, so he decided he would go along—if he couldn't ride, he would walk—or rather run. And run he did, as hard as his little short legs would carry him for blocks and blocks. Somewhere out on the Boonville road he got lost. Someone saw him out there running after the car and he hasn't been seen since.

The Overfelt family had no idea Mike had followed or they would have stopped and picked him up—but poor little Mike couldn't catch up.

Carol is just sick over her little doggie, who would sit up and beg for food and do so many cute tricks she has taught him. She can't sleep nights and she can't eat—so if anybody sees Mike—they would make a little girl and a little dog mighty happy by calling the Overfelt home. They would receive a reward, too.—H.L.

Four Perish In Apartment House Blaze

CHICAGO (AP)—Four persons, including a baby-sitting grandmother and her grandson, perished in a fast-spreading fire which destroyed a 12-flat, four story apartment building last night.

Eight other persons, including six firemen, were injured. About 30 persons fled or were carried by firemen from the structure. The building is at the busy intersection of Milwaukee and North avenues at 1547-49 Milwaukee Ave.

Fire officials said the blaze, of undetermined origin, apparently started in the basement. It spread upward and to the rear porches on which were oil storage tanks. The intense heat exploded the tanks, which contained fuel for oil burners used to heat the 12 flats.

Fire officials estimated damage at $50,000.

All of the victims were trapped by the flames which engulfed the rear apartments of the building. They included Mrs. Mary Loucks, 54, her grandson, Kevin Kelly Nichols, 9 months; Miss Bonnie Laiske, 35, and Leonard Presley, 50. Kevin's brother, Casey, 3, was hospitalized.

Bulk of 3 to 4 Million Estate To Communities

PRYOR, Okla. (AP)—The bulk of the late W. A. Graham's estate, valued at between 3 and 4 million dollars will go to the city of Pryor, Okla. and the state of Oklahoma, it was disclosed yesterday.

C. D. Mitchell, Graham's stepson, filed a petition for probate of the late banker's will in Mayes County Court. A hearing on the petition was set by County Judge Tom Landrum for April 15.

The will, prepared in longhand by Graham, was on a single yellow ledger sheet. At the bottom was written: "My hands are cramping now. I cannot write better today."

Graham wrote the will only 18 days before his death last Friday. The 100-year-old philanthropist did not provide the method for distributing the money to the state, county and city. Neither did he specify any use for the funds.

He left an estimated $250,000 to his "old home town of Adairsville, Ga.," and several individuals.

The will contained bequests for a reported nine individuals, including three nieces and four nephews. These totaled $250,000, it was reported.

Graham's death followed by a few days a fall he suffered on the steps of his home.

Morris-to-McGrath-to-Truman Double Play Takes Headlines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The old Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance routine was like a soft-ball game compared with the Morris-to-McGrath-to-Truman double-play in which the President has to make the put-out.

Newbold Morris and J. Howard McGrath—the President's two top investigators whose own conduct has been investigated by Congress—haven't much in common except years in politics and an ability to get into jams.

Although Atty. Gen. McGrath's Justice Department ordinarily would be the chief investigator of government corruption, the Truman administration seemed to think it necessary to bring in an outsider.

After several better-known men had turned down the job McGrath suggested Morris and President Truman appointed him special assistant to McGrath. At once Morris announced he'd start off investigating McGrath's department.

This in itself was interesting but not any more so than Morris' performance when he went before a Senate committee which wanted to quiz him about his law firm's connection with a ship deal.

While Morris is a New York City boy of 50 who battled well in the political league there, he got off to a country boy's start shortly after landing here where the political sluggers use lead pipes.

Guards of Armored Truck Suspended Following Robbery

DANVERS, Mass. (AP)—The three guards of the armored truck which was robbed of $381,000 last week are under indefinite suspension from the company.

That move was disclosed last night by George Patton, Jr., general manager of the U. S. Trucking Corp., owners of the armored truck.

Patton added, however, "there is not a particle of evidence of complicity" against any of the three men.

The Danvers loss was covered by insurance issued by Commercial Assurance Co. Ltd.

Police admit they still don't have a good clue to the Danvers robbery in which three men scooped the money from the armored car while the three guards drank coffee in a drug store.

a House judiciary subcommittee is eager to check on the Justice Department itself and wants a look at McGrath's income tax returns.

While McGrath and the congressmen were battling the ball around he said he (1) not only hadn't filled out Morris' questionnaire but didn't know whether he would (2) hadn't distributed it to the other Justice Department people, and (3) wouldn't have recommended Morris as investigator if he had it to do over again.

Here was a double-play the like of which the President hasn't been mixed up in "since he's been in the White House. After all, Morris was given his job with presidential blessing and here was McGrath balking at Morris' investigation.

Could he uphold McGrath and let Morris go? And if he did, how would that look in this political year when Truman knows corruption in government will be a campaign issue?

Backers of Taft, Kefauver Talk of Victory Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elated to "gains for Taft," but added he has "no doubt" the GOP nomination will go to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.) called Kefauver's victories in the two primaries "proof that the rank and file of the Democrats are going to insist that he be nominated."

On the other hand Sen. Maybank (D-Sc.) contended that Sen. Russell of Georgia "has the edge at this point" for the nod on the Democratic ticket. Maybank said Russell has "the Solid South sewed up and he is going to have enough strength and puts him, I believe, on the way to victory," said Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan.).

Russell himself said President Truman's decision not to seek re-election means he has as good a chance as any other candidate for the top nomination. Russell told radio-television interviewers last night he would accept the vice-presidential nomination only under "very unusual circumstances."

In the Wisconsin primary, Taft won 24 of the 30 Republican delegates.

Kefauver was a Wisconsin shoe-in, polling about 85 per cent of the popular vote on the Democratic ticket and winning all 28 convention delegates.

In Nebraska, Kefauver ran more than 15,000 votes ahead of Sen. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Taft backers regarded his Nebraska victory as particularly significant in view of his defeat by the general in the March 11 New Hampshire primary, and Eisenhower's amazing write-in sweep over Taft in the March 18 Minnesota contest.

But Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) said the results in Nebraska and Wisconsin were "not setbacks for

Stanky, Idol of Team, Has Cards Hustling

More Saigh Sees Of 'Little Guy' Likes Him Better

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — "The more I see of the little guy, the fonder I become of him. He's done a fine job for us. I can't praise him too highly. It's remarkable the way all the boys have taken to him and willingly work their heads off for him."

The speaker was Fred Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals. The "little guy" he was talking about was Eddie Stanky, the effervescent ex-Giant who has taken over the Redbirds' reins, succeeding Marty Marion.

Stanky, who has impressed by the businesslike way he has run the club, has a real chance to be a first year wonder. The Cardinals appear to be definitely improved over the team that finished third, 15½ games behind the pennant-winning Giants. Most of the improvement stems from Eddie's inspiring leadership, his flaming spirit and his contagious hustle.

The Cards aren't a set club by any means. Several problems still confront Stanky, but the little skipper, who tells you frankly he is still trying to make the team, is optimistic about his club.

"I like the club very much," he tells you. "I figure the Cardinals a strong pennant contender that could possibly go all the way."

Stanky likes his pitching. It was in this spot that he was most afraid. Eddie sums it up this way: "I'm more optimistic about the pitching staff now than I was the first day in camp."

Heading the staff are righthander Gerry Staley (19-13) and southpaw Cliff Chambers (14-12). Each has looked sharp this spring. Right-handers Joe Presko, Willard Schmidt, and southpaw Wilmer Vinegar Bend Mizell round out the starting five. Schmidt, who isn't even on the Card roster, has been the surprise sensation. The 24-year-old native of Hays, Kan., has yielded only three earned runs and allowed 13 hits in 22 innings. The young fast baller has fanned 19 while issuing only eight bases on balls.

Presko, whose fine freshman season was interrupted by a sore arm last summer, appears to have fully recovered. Cloyd Boyer, another sore-armed gent, also looks stronger. Veterans Harry Brecheen (8-4) and Alpha Brazil (6-5) will be used as spot pitchers and shortstop late last season after averaging 1.89 earned run average at Houston, will serve as a relief hurler. George Munger (4-6), Boyer (14-5) and rookies Fred Hahn, Johnny Yuhas, Jackie Colburn, Bob Habenicht, Kurt Krieger and Octavio Rubert round out the staff.

Stanky's biggest problem is first base. He is giving big Steve Eno, the 237-pound strong boy from Rochester a good long look. If the 23-year-old Giant can make it, the Cards will have a long ball, right-hand hitting slugger to team up well with left-handers Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter.

If Bilko fails, either Red Schoendienst or Musial will play first. Schoendienst had done most of his time in the second base and shortstop, but looks like Stanky will open at second and Solly Hemus at short. Hemus is a hustling Stanky-type who has been getting on base at a phenomenal rate. In his first 41 times at bat, he hit safely 11 times, walked 17 and was hit twice. Billy Johnson, the solid man with the rifle-like arm, makes the Redbirds definitely stronger at third base.

This doesn't seem to leave room for Schoendienst but Stanky dispels that thought with the statement: "I don't know where he'll be in the opening day lineup." Unless Musial is moved to first, the outfield will consist of the league's top hitter in left, Wally Westlake in center and Slaughter in right. Peanuts Lowrey, Hal Rice and rookie Herb Gorman are the reserves. Gene Mauch, Tommy Glaviano and Eddie Kazak are the utility infielders.

Del Rice heads the catching department. He will be backed up by Les Fusselman, and either Bill Sarni or John Bucha.

NCA Gets Tough With Colleges Who Recruit

CHICAGO (AP) — The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has proposed a get-tough policy against athletic recruiting.

Offenders would be stripped from the group's accredited list. The association's action at the start of its annual meeting Wednesday was the first offered by an accrediting group in support of the American Council on Education's proposed rigid sports control program.

The North Central, agency for 19 states from West Virginia to Wyoming, avoided action on the bowl games.

Those things will take care of themselves if we clean up our evils of recruiting, proselytizing and over-emphasis of athletics on the campuses," said J. B. Edmonson, Michigan, chairman of the group's committee on athletics.

The North Central program would eliminate "snap courses" for athletes, athletic scholarships, over-emphasis on winning, and hiring of high-salaried coaches whose sole job is to produce winning teams.

Blows to Teams This Early May Decide World Champions Even Before Season Opens

Monte Irvin Breaks Ankle Sliding to 3rd

DENVER (AP) — There are sad days ahead for the New York Giants as they beat their way down through the Southwest and toward the start of the National League campaign with their great Negro star Monte Irvin left behind in a hospital here.

When Monte Irvin, who had thrashed on the ground around third base with a fractured ankle yesterday, there wasn't a giant but knew that a second straight league pennant probably had been forfeited in an exhibition game, and on an unnecessary slide, at that.

You can't lose a star like Irvin, the league's leading RBI man last year, and retain much hope of beating out a solid club such as Brooklyn. The scene was a heart-breaking one as Monte's teammates rushed from the bench to gather around him and Leo Durocher went stamping about the infield like a wild man, a picture of grief.

The Cleveland Indians appeared almost as affected as the Giants. The star from New Jersey has made himself one of the game's most admired and respected players, and the Indians have seen much of him in their spring trips with the Giants. They swarmed around his stricken figure almost as quickly as Monte's teammates did and their third baseman, Al Rosen, appeared to be berating himself for having faked the catch which caused Irvin to make the unnecessary slide.

Young Willie Mays even blamed himself for having hit the single which caused big Monte, his idol, to go tearing around from first on the play. Outside of Durocher, Willie probably was the first man in the park to see that Irvin's spikes had caught in soft earth short of the bag and that he was badly hurt.

Willie, caught in a rundown after shortstop Ike Boone of the Indians had cut off the throw from the outfield, kept pointing wildly toward third as he scampered between the throws and finally permitted himself to be tagged out. Then he went running across the infield to bend over Monte.

Willie expects to be called into the Army soon. The Giants have been figuring that they might some day get along without the brilliant Alabama kid—possibly by sending Bobby Thomson back to the outfield and returning Hank Thompson to his 1950 post as a third. But none of them will tell you they can make it without Irvin. No one ever suffered a tougher blow, even if Monte should return sometime during the season.

Once Irvin was hurt in the second inning the Giants appeared to go to pieces. Mays' hit was the last they got off Bob Lennon in seven innings, and they gave the second big Denver crowd of two days a listless exhibition as they succumbed, 5-0.

Giants, Yankees, BoSox All Suffer From Late Mishaps Williams To Marines On May 2nd

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Ted Williams, one of baseball's greatest sluggers, indicated today his colorful diamond career will come to an end on May 2 when he returns to active duty as a captain in the Marine Corps.

The slender Boston Red Sox star, after a two-hour physical examination yesterday, was found fit for duty together with Gerry Coleman, star second baseman of the New York Yankees.

Williams is baseball's highest salaried performer at $100,000. A Marine captain's salary is $5,000 a year.

"This is it," Ted said. "I guess this finishes me. I don't see how I can come back. I'll be past 35 when I get out. That's old, feller. It's awfully hard to come back at that age. Heck, it's getting harder for me all the time—even now."

It had been believed that Williams' left elbow, the one he shattered in the 1950 all-star game in Chicago's Comiskey Park, might keep him out of service. The medical board dispelled that thought.

Said Capt. J. C. Early, senior medical officer: "Capt. Williams' left elbow met every test and X-rays showed no significant limitations. As for Capt. Coleman, he, too, passed with flying colors."

Williams and Coleman, both veteran fliers of World War II, will start a 17-month tour of duty next month. Ted will be 34 years old 5-0. He walked to lead off the frame and zipped around second in the 1950 bound Williams Mays singled to right field.

Cleveland shortstop Ray Boone cut off the throw from the outfield and hung Mays up between first and second but Irvin slid into third anyway. He suffered a compound fracture of his right ankle.

Irvin's loss probably means that Bob Thomson will forsake third base for his first love, the outfield. Hank Thompson, a disappointment last year, figures to return to third. The situation is further complicated by the expected induction of Mays.

Williams, highest salaried player in the game, and Coleman will also miss the 1953 season. They are in for 17 months. For Williams, this probably means the end of his brilliant career. He will be 35 when his second tour of duty is completed.

Red Sox Manager Lou Boudreau indicated in Houston, Tex., that Don Lenhardt and Clyde Vollmer would probably alternate the left field job. Another candidate is rookie Gene Stephens.

Gil McDougald will probably take over second base for the Yankees instead of switching between second and third. Rookie Andy Carey apparently will man third.

The return of Simmons greatly enhances the stock of the Phils. Simmons is in shape and should be ready to pitch shortly after the bell rings. In Simmons and Robin Roberts the Phils have two potential 20-game winners.

In exhibition games yesterday the Cincinnati Reds nosed out the Washington Senators, 4-3, Brooklyn trounced the Yanks, 11-1, the Phils defeated the Boston Braves, 3-1, and the Pittsburgh Pirates turned back the St. Louis Browns, 5-2.

Lujack Cuts Tie With Pros, May Coach at N-Dame

CHICAGO (AP) — Having severed his ties with the Chicago Bears, Johnny Lujack was free today to give serious consideration to returning to his alma mater, Notre Dame, as football backfield coach.

Lujack, the former All-America quarterback at Notre Dame, will not continue in pro football. He and George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, failed to reach an agreement at the end of a 2-day huddle yesterday.

Johnny's 4-year contract with the Bears, reportedly calling for $80,000, expired after the 1951 season. Halas and Lujack both announced that salary did not enter the conversation.

The 27-year-old former Heisman Trophy winner and athlete of the year in 1947 said he was too busy with his insurance business to meet the demand of time required by pro football.

He said he planned to meet with Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame regarding the backfield coaching job vacated by Bernie Crummin, who moved to Indiana University as head man.

Halas placed Lujack on the Bears' reserve list, making certain that if he does decide to return to pro football he will have to play for Halas unless traded to another team.

"It was Johnny's decision to quit," said Halas. "I think he made a wise choice."

Flowered Course To Be Treacherous For Masters' Play

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The flower fringed Augusta National Golf Course would be like a treacherous and treacherous but deceptively beautiful trap in the East Georgia hills today for the opening round of the Masters Tournament.

The field of 72 is the largest and probably the best on record here, but few expect more than three or four players to beat the National Course's 72-hole par of 288.

There is deception about this 18-link chain of holes. Flowers and shrubs planted here a century ago, when the land was a nursery, border the fairways and make the tailored landscape look soft and easy for a game of golf.

But the National isn't easy. Last year when Ben Hogan finally won his first Masters with 280 golf, only four men were better than the 288 standard — Hogan, Skeet Riegel, Lloyd Mangrum and Lew Worsham. The year before only three broke par.

Eighteen amateurs are among the 72 taking their trip today across the 6,550-yard layout. No amateur ever won this event, but, this year the amateurs are supposed to rate better than usual.

With the improved amateurs is a vastly improved group of foreign born players. And, of course, there is the troupe of touring professionals. All Masters winners are back except Herman Keiser and Ralph Guldahl.

Queen Might Tell Truman Dutch Plan To Save Nation's Guild

NEW YORK (AP)—Queen Juliana if she wishes can tell President Truman today how the Dutch plan to save the guilders is blooming.

The plan is something like Prime Minister Churchill's drive to save the pound. The Dutch started their plan a year earlier than did the British.

And in recent days there is evidence that the British plan is also bearing fruit. The pound sterling is developing strength, if slowly.

American exporters, meanwhile, say they are starting to feel sharply the recent moves by foreign countries to reduce imports from the dollar area.

Whether they're out to save the pound, the guilder, the franc or the peso, other countries usually start by tightening the curbs on their national's importing American goods and thus draining their country's reserves of U. S. dollars and gold.

The Netherlands was running far behind in its trade relations with its neighbors before the government started its drive a year ago to halt inflation at home and increase Dutch exports. But now it has turned this deficit of trade with its European neighbors into a surplus. The Dutch say they are now in a more favorable position in international trade than they have been for several years.

The Dutch reserves of gold and foreign exchange have been climbing and Dutch exporters are driving for new markets in Latin America. Many of these Dutch manufacturing projects are aided by American investors.

The British financial situation continued to slide until last month, when the Churchill government took severe steps to curb inflation, to balance the budget, to cut imports and boost exports.

In January and February the average weekly loss of gold and dollar reserves by England was 63 million dollars, up from a 58 million dollar average weekly drain in the fourth quarter of 1951. But in the three weeks since Churchill acted, the increasing drain has been halted. And yesterday the British Treasury announced that Britain's financial situation is improving.

Britain still has a long way to go yet, the National City Bank of New York points out today in its April letter. "Only by demonstrating its ability to live within its means can Britain restore confidence in the pound sterling and retain its position as an international banker and trader," the bank says.

The bank applauds the steps that Britain is taking: raising interest rates, stiffening lending conditions, streamlining raw material allocations, and cutting the food subsidy.

And it particularly approves to the British intention to reduce government expenditures and make a start at reducing taxation. "High government expenditure accompanied by high taxation has an inflationary effect," the British chancellor of the exchequer admits.

The further curbs by the British on imports, however, is being felt in this country, according to foreign traders attending a conference of the Foreign Credit Interchange Bureau here. They say their business is being hurt by the world-wide tendency to restrict exchange, and limit dollar goods imports to essential items. Some insist there are more dollars and gold available in Europe than the other countries are admitting.

World Communism In Stalin Tribute

BERLIN (AP)—World Communism celebrated today the 30th anniversary of obedience to Joseph V. Stalin.

The East German press noted with splashing articles of praise the anniversary of Stalin's accession to the top job in Moscow.

Arrest 21 Jap Reds

TOKYO (AP)—Police arrested 21 persons in a series of raids on Communist hideouts today shortly before a U. S. military court convicted seven top Japanese Reds of espionage.

The seven found guilty of spying on American occupation forces were given prison terms ranging from three to seven years.

Cline Cain Reviews History Of Club for Lions Wednesday

The history of the Sedalia Lions Club was reviewed at a tite noon-day meeting of the organization Wednesday by Cline Cain, past president and one of the early members of the club.

Cain told of the chartering of the club Jan. 14, 1933, at which time there were 20 charter members. The first president was Jack L. Jolly, attorney, who now resides in Popular Bluff. Leonard H. Ruffin was the first secretary and R. H. "Bob" Reed, now of Kansas City, the first treasurer.

Ruffin died during that year and Joe Bax was elected secretary to succeed him.

In 1939 the club membership began to decline and efforts to revive it brought in 15 members. In the annual Melvin Jones Birthday contest the club membership was brought up to a total of 55. The Sedalia group was promised if it could get the total membership to 60, Sedalia would have a chance for the state convention in 1941.

The membership was increased and Sedalia bid for the convention at the 1940 Hannibal meeting. Gathering enough votes to bring the meeting here, it proved to be a most interesting state-wide gathering.

Cain told of the CAA program which was sponsored by the Lions.

Debate Whether Gov't Can Seize Steel Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Has the government legal power to seize the steel industry? And if so, could it then raise worker wages?

Those two questions were being hotly debated in Washington today. Some congressmen, including Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), doubted government seizure authority. Administration lawyers were poring over their lawbooks.

Several statutes, including the Selective Service Act, allow government seizure to assure government certain circumstances, but whether they fit the steel case apparently was one for the courts to decide.

During World War II the government seized plants and industries to compel wage increases under the Smith-Connally Law, but that now is repealed.

Queen Mother to Stay At Buckingham Palace

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth won't have to live out her widowhood alone. The kids are going to let her stay on at Buckingham Palace when they move in after Easter.

Young Queen Elizabeth II upset another royal custom today with her decision. Widowed queens always before have moved into other quarters after the new sovereign took the throne and the palace.

He Thought So, But Fire Wasn't April Fool

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The caller said John O. Percy's home was on fire but Percy knew it was April 1.

A second call got the same treatment. Just another April Fool's Day prankster. But after the third call, Percy, now a little doubtful, hurried home. It was on fire. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

Open Trieste Confab
LONDON (AP)—British, American and Italian representatives opened their conference on Trieste today. After a two-hour meeting, a communiqué said the conference would be limited to achieving closer Italian co-operation in administration of zone A, the British-American occupation area, and would not concern the ultimate future of the territory as a whole. The conference will continue tomorrow.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH
With More Comfort

FAS'TEETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly. To eat and talk in more comfort, just sprinkle a little FAS'TEETH on your plates. No gummy, gooey party taste or feeling. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FAS'TEETH at any drug store.

Wake Up To More Comfort
Without Naggng Backache

Naggng backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritation due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the kidneys rid your system and filters flush out waste. Survey Show Taft to Win Illinois Vote

(Editor's Note: Illinois takes the political spotlight next week with a primary election April 8. To see how sentiment is running, The Associated Press called on correspondents throughout the state for estimates reported in the survey below.)

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (P)—Sen. Taft will win the Illinois Republican Presidential preference primary in the collective opinion of Illinois newspapers and correspondents surveyed by The Associated Press.

Gen. Eisenhower, in their composite opinion, will draw a sizable write-in vote. His name is not on the ballot.

The downstate correspondents and political writers on Chicago newspapers submitted estimates on the vote each believed will be cast for the candidates in his district next Tuesday.

The survey reached into all sections of Illinois.

Opinions expressed in figures were received for 58 of the 101 downstate counties for Taft, Harold E. Stassen and Riley A. Bender, and for 55 counties for Eisenhower and Gen. MacArthur. These downstate figures today added up to:

Taft, 64.7 per cent; Eisenhower, 18.3 per cent; Stassen 11.8 per cent; MacArthur, 3.2 per cent; Bender, 1.7 per cent.

Political writers on the four largest Chicago newspapers were asked to offer their calculations on Cook County (Chicago). Writers for three of them responded. The average of their Cook County figures for each candidate was:

Taft, 70.3 per cent; Eisenhower, 12.3 per cent; Stassen, 9.6 per cent; Bender, 5 per cent; MacArthur, 2.6 per cent.

Only Taft, Stassen and Bender, a Chicago hotel man, are on the ballot. Votes for Eisenhower, MacArthur or any others will have to be write-ins.

Write-ins are permitted in Illinois. Voters raise a slot and write in a name on a voting machine in Cook County and Rock Island County. They can write in a name on a paper ballot in the other counties. But they have to draw a square to the left and put a cross in the square.

This takes time and trouble—and adds to the difficulty of making forecasts of results.

The preference primary is a popularity contest. The 50 convention delegates who will be elected are not compelled to abide by the results.

Taft has the support of the Illinois Republican organization. Thirty Taft delegates will be elected automatically. They have no opposition in their districts.

There are 90 Republican delegate candidates. Taft managers claim 67, and Eisenhower supporters 10. Two are for Sen. Dirksen (11), and one is for MacArthur. The other 10 are undecided or unannounced.

Sen. Kefauver is alone on the Democratic Presidential preference ballot and no survey of Democratic prospects was made.

Merchant Views 'Sedalia on Parade'

By F. Emory Bowman

Everyone likes to go window shopping and at sometime or another all of us, we are sure, have enjoyed this truly American custom.

Most all Sedalia merchants are co-operating and working hard to show their merchandise, without cost to Mr. and Mrs. Sedalia, through clean and neatly trimmed windows on Friday at "Sedalia on Parade" night.

Lev's, all of us, show our appreciation to these merchants by coming downtown Friday evening from 7-9. It won't cost anything a penny. You and your family and friends can do much to say, "Thank you" and thereby help these merchants make it easier to help you.

This night, Friday, April 4, is your chance, Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public to see what's new, what's correct and what's coming. Sedalia merchants, for the most part, want to give the public what they want, when they want it, at a price they want to pay. Now is your chance to get acquainted with him. He is your neighbor and wants to serve you. He wants to know you personally.

He wants to serve society, his town and his country well, and so he has chosen his particular business as a vocation to do so.

So again, let's all Sedalia and trade territory, come and say, "Thank you"—you'll feel better and your friendly merchant will do better.

That's assuming the fighting continues at its current pace.

The department gave the House Appropriations Committee—studying the new budget—this breakdown on its estimated spending in Korea between March 28 and June 30:

Army, $4,376,697,000; Navy, $375,000,000; Air Force, $305,000,000.

Taft Gets Most GOP Delegates From Nebraskans

OMAHA (P)—They were still counting votes today in the Nebraska primary election but the prestige at stake in the Republican presidential battle and apparently the lion's share of the delegates had been bagged by Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee gained stature in the Democratic presidential popularity contest. But he wasn't likely to fare as well as his opponent, Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, in national convention delegates.

Delegates were elected independently and go to the conventions unpledged.

Of 18 Republican delegates, Taft apparently had 15, part of them on the basis of pre-election commitments. Others had agreed to abide by the primary results.

Only one was committed to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who mauled Taft in New Hampshire and Minnesota but took a solid beating at the hands of the Ohioan in Tuesday's Nebraska primary.

Taft's victory over the general in Nebraska and his success in the Wisconsin primary the same day restored lost prestige to the senator in the Republican presidential scramble.

The delegate lineup on the Democratic side looked like four for Kefauver and five for Kerr. Of a total of 12, two were uncommitted

Manila's Banks Tied By Workers' Walkout

MANILA (P)—A strike disrupted operations of two of Manila's largest banks today. Bankers called it a wildcat walkout.

The Manila Branch of the National City Bank of New York kept its doors open. But the Philippines Trust Company locked up.

The National City Bank is the only depository here for U. S. Treasury funds. Handling of the funds was delayed.

Bank employees seek higher wages, longer vacations, pensions, a closed shop and a guaranteed Christmas bonus. Bank officials said union officers had promised to continue negotiations.

Widow Gives Up Search for the Boy Friend of Her Youth

LONDON (P)—Sadie Brooks, a sprightly, 74-year-old widow from Canada, today gave up her search for the boy friend of her youth and hoped her 12 children don't hear too many tales about her hunt for an old romance.

Sadie searched in vain through her old neighborhood in the London suburb of Ealing and up in Birmingham. She knocked on doors, asking people if they knew Tom Mitchell. No one did.

Tom was her sweetheart at the turn of the century. But Sadie left for Canada, married and raised a family in Oshawa, near Toronto.

"I have 12 children, I guess," she said. "Some are mine and the rest are adopted. It wouldn't do for them to hear what I've been up to in England."

Sadie said her idea to hunt up her girlhood heart-throb came on the spur of the moment. So she flew over—with two trunks and several shopping bags full of presents for Tom and old friends.

"But it's no use," she sighed. "The whole place has changed."

Eyewitness Tells of Start Of Atomic Tests This Morn

By BILL BECKER

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P)—From a box seat in a small plane only 16 miles away, I watched the start Monday of the latest series of atomic tests.

The small but brilliant burst lit up the night side of our plane as we were coming out of a turn and swinging almost directly over Camp Desert Rock. The drop was made over Frenchman Flat, scene of the first atomic experiments here last year.

The flash lasted perhaps a second and a half and then the familiar greyish brown column of smoke and desert dust rose into the air. In two minutes the rust-colored semi-mushroom cloud had formed at an elevation just about at our eye level, 11,000 feet.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the bomb was dropped from a U. S. Air Force plane, presumably from Kirtland Air Force Base, Albuquerque, N. M. A B-29 was visible from our plane about 20 minutes earlier, flying at perhaps 12,000 feet. However, we did not see the plane at the moment when it made its bomb run.

With me in the plane were Pilot Don Day, ex-Air Force pilot instructor, and Ed Rees, Time Magazine staff correspondent and World War Air Force radioman-gunner.

The explosion came right at 9 o'clock (PST) after we had circled over so-called Atom Watchers Valley, which runs from Las Vegas up to the test site, some 80 miles to the northwest.

The detonation apparently occurred at low elevation, perhaps 1,000 feet. It did not appear as large as most of the seven weapons which were tested here last fall.

The only distinguishing features of this explosion were several dark grey streaks which appeared in the rising column. There was very little wind and the cloud twisted slowly into the shape of a figure 7.

It was the first time the AEC had used Frenchman Flat since the Operation Ranger series of January-February, 1951. Later tests were conducted at Yucca Flat, further north.

I had my eye trained on Yucca Flat, in the distance, when the burst went off virtually in our laps. This may be the closest that unofficial air observers have been to an atomic blast since William Lawrence of the New York Times flew over the second explosion in Japan, at Nagasaki.

By the time we landed at 9:30 a. m. the cloud was no longer visible.

NEW TWIST—A few minutes after a flash, the characteristic column of smoke from an atomic bomb explosion divides into two white portions topped by a dark cloud puff. The scene was recorded as a series of tests were opened at the Frenchman's Flat atomic proving grounds near Las Vegas, Nev. (NEA TELEPHOTO) ible. In fact it began to thin out within 20 minutes. The top of it was just barely perceptible over the snow-covered Charleston range. Most other press observers viewed the blast from Mt. Charleston, the 11,800-foot peak of the range.

Both Day and Rees agreed they "have never seen anything like it" in their flying experiences. Day, operator of a Las Vegas flying service has more than 5,000 hours of flying time to his credit.

The most surprising thing about the entire flight was the total absence of any shock after the explosion. No sound was heard, either.

We had braced ourselves for a good knocking around some two minutes after we saw the burst, but none came. This could be interpreted as attesting to the smaller size of the weapon being tested.

There were no troops nor animals participating in today's test, said the brief AEC statement.

Baptist Youths Given Awards In Ceremony

SWEET SPRINGS—An unusual service was held at the Baptist Church Sunday night, March 23 when 12 girls from the junior and intermediate G. A.'s and four boys from the R. A.'s received recognition for work done in their organizations.

The girls receiving awards for recognition where were Patty Winsom, Darlene Beall, Betty Buire, June Evelyn Hunter, Mary Lee Cyark and Irma Patterson, as maidens; Margaret Ann Delner, lady-in-waiting; Carol Ann Scrivner and Ruth Ann Akeman, princesses; and Joyce Thomas, Betty McClure and Janis Thompson, queens.

Boys receiving awards and recognition were Philip Payne as squire and LeRoy Nelson, Gene Nelson, Gene Buie and Jack Krause as pages.

Following the receiving of awards and the benediction and recessional, a reception was held in the basement for the young people who took part in the service, sponsored by the YMU.

Scout Council Meeting Here Tuesday Night

Members of the executive board of the Lake of the Ozarks Council, Boy Scouts of America, met at the Old Missouri Homestead Friday night.

Business included a report by Larry Jones, Jefferson City, chairman of the organization and extension committee, who indicated the council growth, problem units, and new units since January 1. New units in Sedalia include: Troop 53, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Pack 53, Jefferson School PTA, Troop 150, Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints.

Dr. Lawrence Geiger, Sedalia, chairman of the leadership training committee, reported on a recent meeting of this committee. Recommendations included training courses for Cubbers, Scouters and Explorer leaders in basics at least once a year in each district. Other courses, including the Junior Leaders Training Course to be held at Camp Pa-He-Tsi on April 19-20, were discussed.

Abner Gwinn, Jefferson City, chairman of the camping activities committee, reported that eight boys have made reservations to take the Philmont Wagon-Train this summer. Arthur Morgan of Sedalia, will be one of the leaders to go on this 23-day trip to the Robert Hoy, Marshall, gave the report of the finance committee, indicating that the council budget was still several thousand dollars short for the year 1952. Discussion of how to handle the finance problem followed.

Rex Whitton, president of the Lake of the Ozarks Council, presided at the meeting. The following members and guests were present: Robert Hoy, Abner Gwinn, Charles Buckner, John Waldorf, Oscar DeWolf, Tom Henry, Charles Isley, H. L. Miller, E. L. The Blackouts At CMSC Set For April 8-9

The Phi Sigma Epsilon, social fraternity at Central Missouri State college, Warrensburg, is once again preparing for the annual production, the Blackouts. Many Sedalians who have attended this production in the past won't want to miss this year's show, to be given April 8 and 9 at Henricks Hall on the campus. The theme this year, "A Hitch Hike on the Way to the Mardi Gras," should prove very interesting and entertaining. As usual there will be the annual fashion show and audience stunts.

These Sedalia boys, members of the fraternity, are taking part: Leroy Luchs, Jack Gold and John Handley. The show begins at 8:15 p. m.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood--

Danny Kaye Stays Aloof
From TV, Makes Few Movies

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Danny Kaye is a fellow who refuses to fit into the usual pattern of topflight comedians.

While other comics are stamped into television, Kaye remains aloof from the new medium. His colleagues make upwards to three movies a year; Kaye averages less than one a year. Other funnymen would break their necks to land a radio show. Kaye displays no interest. He tried radio and discovered it wasn't for him.

Now the Brooklyn-born redhead is going far out on a limb to play a relatively straight role in "Hans Christian Andersen." While he has comic moments in the film and sings 10 numbers, the film will display nothing of tricks usually associated with Kaye. No glib-gabble or anything.

"Aren't you taking a chance?" I inquired.

"Mr. (Sam) Goldwyn's taking the chance," he replied. "It's his four million bucks, not mine." That's what the picture will reputedly cost, but you know how things get exaggerated out here.

Unlike some comedians, who are supposed to yearn for the role of "Hamlet," Kaye doesn't think playing straight roles will become a habit for him.

"I thought it would be interesting to play a warm, simple character for a change," he observed. "But for my next picture, I want to go back to a real comedy."

What about TV?

"I suppose I will get into it eventually," he replied. "It's too big a medium to overlook."

"But I'm not going to rush into anything. I haven't even started thinking about a format yet. But one thing is certain—I wouldn't do a weekly show. That's too much."

Kaye's other plans? He doesn't expect to return to London's Palladium, where he scored a big hit with the British people. "I was lucky to be so well received the third time I went back," he said. "I don't want to press my luck."

The Kaye role as Hans Christian Andersen is unique in movie history in that it has already been criticized—before the picture has even been finished. The Danish Foreign Office indicated it was planning a strong protest over the casting of Kaye, previously known as a clown, in the role of the Danish writer.

Kaye has remained calm throughout the controversy.

"I don't know what they're complaining about—since they haven't even seen the picture," he commented. "We're not attempting to show the life of Andersen. We're just presenting an incident which could have happened during his life."

"It is the same sort of complaint we had when we made 'Walter Mitty.' A small group of devotees did not like the way we handled the story. Luckily, they are not the ones who make up the vast movie audience."

Grasshoppers to Cut Minor Swath In '52

DENVER (AP)—Grasshoppers, the historic scourge of farmers, will cut only a minor swath through the West this year.

Yet grasshopper control agencies

call this "a critical period in control activities."

Jim Dutton, director of grasshopper control for the Federal Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, explained the paradox:

"Farmers and ranchers, with help from us, have done an amazing job of control in recent years.

This year the hopper population should be at a record low.

"But if landowners go slack, or imagine trouble from grasshoppers is just past history, they can get out of hand again overnight."

Women Who Own Stocks Want Part In Running Firms

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Women stockholders are raising demands of late to have a part in managing corporations whose stock they own.

The girls are beginning to read the proxy statements and annual reports they get in the mail and to take an active interest in what makes big business tick.

An evidence of this new feminine voice can be expected at the forthcoming annual meeting of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York on April 16. A solid majority of this vast company's more than a million stockholders are women, and some of them feel that a woman member should be added to the Board of Directors.

Representing the Federation of Women Shareholders in American Business at the meeting will be a small but determined lady named Ella H. Aronstam, a retired New York school teacher who supplements her teachers' pension with judicious stock investments.

Her resolution, last on the list to be voted on at the annual meeting, reads as follows:

"Resolved: The stockholders request our Board of Directors to augment the board to the full number (19) authorized under our by-laws, including at least one woman on the Board of Directors."

Miss Aronstam owns 100 shares of A. T. & T. stock, accumulated over a long period beginning in her girlhood when her mother used to give her a share from time to time as a birthday or Christmas present. Recently she started attending meetings of the Federation of Women Shareholders, and was pleased to discover that even a small stockholder is a pretty important cog in American business. Says she:

"Where would A. T. & T. be without women stockholders and customers, to say nothing of employees? Why, just imagine the women who spend half their time talking on the telephone, and the operators who place their calls. If any company needs a feminine voice in management, this is it."

The federation has been doing a lot of spadework in the last few years to gain recognition for the vast body of women stockholders, and also to educate women themselves as to their rights and duties. Says Mrs. Wilma Soss, president of the organization:

"We have our foot in the door

It takes time, but slowly corporations are realizing that competent women belong in management."

Injured by Car In Home

CHESTER, Ill. (P)—Mrs. Rosa Jeremiah must be wondering where a body's safe nowadays after a car injured her as she stood in her own front door.

The motorist told police his steering gear came loose and he lost control of his car. It plowed across Mrs. Jeremiah's lawn and knocked her front porch askew. The front door fell atop Mrs.

Jeremiah, about 60.

She suffered a deep head gash, back and shoulder injuries. The motorist was unhurt.

Eggs, Other Items Higher Priced Today

By The Associated Press

Retail prices on eggs and a long list of fresh vegetables were a little higher this week in most stores.

Hams and frying chickens were a couple of cents a pound lower in many places. Otherwise the overall level of meat prices was about unchanged.

The advance in eggs prices amounted to 2 to 4 cents a rule and was generally attributed to heavier buying by stores preparing for a lively Easter and Passover trade.

Vegetables higher in most produce departments included best quality green beans, beets, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery (especially golden heart), lettuce, onions, green peas, and summer squash. Market reporters said adverse growing weather in the south and a seasonal downturn in production in some important vegetable areas of California were responsible. They said cabbage, carrots, pascal celery and escarole were still good buys in most places, along with radishes, spinach, and mushrooms which were lower this week.

Asparagus, though still relatively high, was dropping and was being featured on many produce counters this week. Corn on the cob was more plentiful and cheaper, too.

Most fruits, including citrus, averaged a little higher.

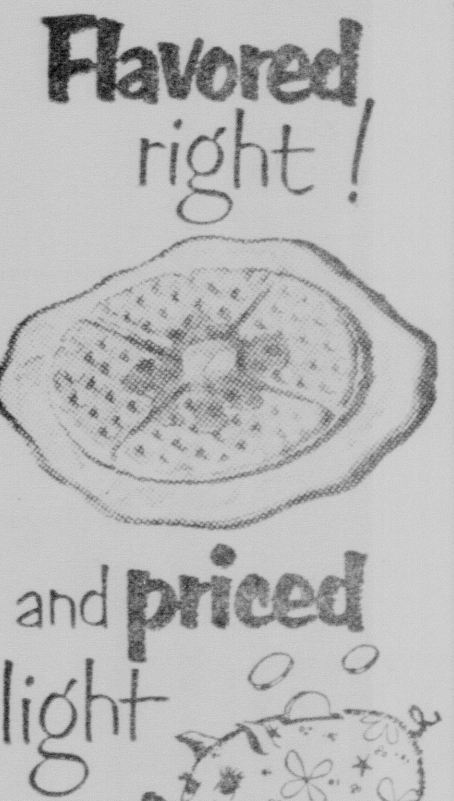

Other advertised specials by major chain stores and independent markets for shopping this week-end included fresh and smoked hams, rib roast, frying chickens, leg of lamb, pork roast, breast and shoulder of veal, fresh and frozen fish, cottage cheese and bacon.

The agriculture department's list of most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week: prunes, raisins, broilers, fryers and cabbage.

Condors have been in existence since before the ice age.

Hal Boyle's Column-- Hotel Clerks No Longer Glare At Patrons Who Want Lodging

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—During the last war many a weary traveler figured it must be easier to get the keys to Fort Knox than a key to the average hotel room.

Hotel desk clerks were more powerful than the neighborhood butcher. Remember how they looked at you as if you had the measles? Yes, even though you assured them you'd be wildly content with a cot in the boiler room — or even a blanket and a sofa on the mezzanine.

The room shortage battles annoyed some people so much they swore they would never leave their own hearths again unless forced out by fire or flood.

Well, the good news for today is —you can start hitting the open road again, fellows. Hotels want you now. The emergency is over. The welcome mat is at the front door. The desk clerk again says, "yes, sir."

"Business is excellent, but the terrific pressure is no longer there," said Frank Wangeman, section of the old European Hotel family. "We no longer have to spend most of our time saying 'no' to people we'd like to take care of."

Wangeman, now 39, served an apprenticeship in such over-sized inns as the Ritz in London and the swank George V in Paris before becoming general manager of the Roosevelt Hotel here which caters to more than 250,000 guests a year.

He believes that hotel-keeping, now one of the nation's eight largest industries, is in the same transitory phase the department store was a generation ago.

"About 20 years ago we had trouble attracting outstanding young men because they didn't want to work in a service industry," he said.

"But not any more. It's a big business offering big rewards. Right now we have in our dishwashing department a boy who took post-graduate courses at Cambridge University and a former British Naval officer who commanded a destroyer. There is a graduate of Yale working as a file clerk in our accounting department."

"They are learning the business from the bottom. So many young men with good educational and family backgrounds come to us that we have to remind them: 'Look, Johnny, this business isn't all glamor — it's hard work.'"

The traveling public likes to be romanced and pampered and made to feel at home, and smart hotels are now trying to do exactly that. How? By streamlining, service, providing better parking facilities, modernizing rooms, installing high speed elevators.

"Everything now is geared to speed," Wangeman said. "The thing guests hate most is to be kept waiting."

Women are playing a big role in the influencing change, as wives often pick the hotel when the family journeys together. There is also an increasing number of traveling women executives.

"Women are no more demanding than men, but they are more precise in what they do want — and more appreciative when they get it," Wangeman said. "They like light, cheerful, well-decorated rooms with a feminine touch if possible — rooms that look more like their own living room. And they like lighter, well-balanced menus with a choice of salads."

A sidelight: Ever stay at a hotel near a railroad station and notice that its lobby clock seemed a little fast? Well, it probably was — about three minutes fast. That is to protect dawdling guests.

"The closer a hotel is to a railroad station," said Wangeman, smiling, "the more likely its guests are to miss their trains."

5 More MIGs Brings 3 Day Losses to 37

SEOUL, Korea (P) — American Sabre pilots destroyed or damaged eight Communist jets today, running their box score to 40 for the first three days of April.

Today's toll was taken in three battles over Northwest Korea, including history's longest jet fight. It lasted 45 minutes. Eighteen F-86 Sabre jets tangled with 60 Russian-type jets in that battle, fought as the sun was setting.

Destroyed 2 15 37
April Allied losses have not been announced. They are reported weekly.

A new jet ace, America's ninth, came out of today's actions. He is Capt. Robert H. Moore of Houston, Tex. He shot down his fifth MIG-15 on his 96th flight over Korea.

The seldom-seen "Type 15" Communist jet showed up in "MIG Alley" Thursday. The U.S. Fifth Air Force said one was probably destroyed and another damaged.

The high-winged "Type 15s" flying with the faster, low-wing MIG-15s, American air officers said the "Type 15s" apparently were designed as fighter-bombers rather than interceptors.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, top U.N. commander, spent two hours watching the Sabres and Australian Meteor jets taking off from their Korean bases. As the last of the jets sped northward, he remarked:

"That was really something."
"The two greatest qualities in a military organization are confidence and enthusiasm," Ridgway said, "and both are certainly manifest here."

Ground action Wednesday was highlighted by a heavy Communist artillery barrage, mostly on the Western Front. An Eighth Army briefing officer said the Reds fired 4,693 rounds.

The Reds probed lightly at six points.

In Washington, the Defense Department said American battle casualties had reached 106,936, an increase of 162 in the last week. The increased included 63 killed.

Millionaires' Business Still Good Despite Indonesian War

SEMARANG, Indonesia (P)—Despite the tides of war and revolution that have swept over Indonesia, the position of the Chinese businessman remains firm. He is in control of this nation's billion-dollar retail trade and plays a large role in the wholesale business.

Through the heart of Semarang's Chinese section runs a hot, grubby alley called Petundjagan. Its main characteristics are ageless, sagging Chinese homes and stores, bustling throngs of peddlers and the smell of dried fish and tropical fruits.

But it is called "Millionaire's Alley," and there is one in practically every town in Southeast Asia.

Siong Kim Sie is just one of the merchants along Petundjagan. His family came to Semarang three generations ago from Fukien province.

In his Toko (shop) he sells a wide variety of small merchandise. The stock varies from Austrian-made lighters to American flashlights, from mentholated balm to aspirin, from a Japanese toothbrush to an article of clothing from Hong Kong.

The stock is about the same as that of 10 years ago—before the Japanese invasion, the Indonesian revolution and the victory of the Communists in Siong's homeland.

He has taken note of these developments. Indonesia has recognized the Peiping regime, so the star-spangled banner of Red China flutters over his front door. In his back room is an old picture of Chiang Kai-shek.

He's making more money than ever. Several times a week a big limousine draws up in front of his store, and well-dressed representatives of big Chinese importing firms enter to talk business in a dingy back room office.

On one occasion Siong bought $25,000 worth of Japanese made nails. They weren't sold in his store. But he owns a number of trucks. He uses them to send the nails and similar articles to the interior where a shortage of building materials exists. Bandits may hijack a truck now and then, but it's all figured into the price paid by the purchaser.

Although Siong is a wealthy man he doesn't look like one. He has no car, no luxurious home, wears a colorless shirt over khaki army trousers and wraps his feet in cheap coolie sandals.

He has no bank account. Why? There's the matter of the tax collector. He knows that steep taxes would cut deeply into his profits.

Norman Logan With Attack Squadron 55

Attack Squadron 55, veteran of a Korean tour of combat duty, is reorganizing at the Naval Air Station, San Francisco, Calif.

Serving with the squadron is Norman E. Logan, aviation machinist's mate, third class, USN, son of Mrs. Anna M. Logan, 1519 South Ingram, Sedalia.

The reorganization involves refresher courses in late developments in Naval aviation, including phases of ordnance, aerology and electronics.

Pilots of the squadron fly the "Skyraider" attack bombers, single-engine aircraft based aboard carriers. The squadron is a unit of Air Attack Group 2.

College A Maker Is Gravy Maker When He Gets Out

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Reporter
NEW YORK (P)—The "greasy grind"—the A-maker in college—is the gravy-maker when he gets out.

That's what a study of college graduates, just published, turned up.

As Ernest Havemann and Dr. Patricia S. West point out in their book "They Went to College":

"If you study hard you are sure to go to heaven and incidentally, have the happiest and most profitable life en route."

The "greasy grind," they say, makes even more money than the all-around student who may be picked as the most likely to succeed, or the big man on campus.

But, and here's a cheerful fact, according to the authors, regardless of where they stood in the graduating class, a great many of the more than six million living college graduates "hold the key jobs in our society. The non-college man who rises to the top is a relative rarity."

Of course, not all college graduates hold the top positions. About one-quarter of them hold clerical, sales and manual jobs, the authors say. But even here, "college graduates earn considerably more than their non-college colleagues."

And, believe it or not, the wealth and prestige of the college he attended is the best guide to predicting a graduate's financial success. Also, the boy who works his
